MR. DWIGHT W. MORROW, intelligent financier of the firm of J. P. Morgan & Co., explains in detail the working of international finance, selling foreign bonds in the United States, etc. He says truly that money to buy such bonds comes "only from people who save."

All the more reason for making such bonds secure. When the international financiers have finished the little people hold the bonds, and "hold the bag."

SOME remember certain Interboro bonds that they once bought from a distinguished banking house.

Others have recently bought Japanese bonds which, as Mr. Morrow says, must be made good by Japanese not yet born.

There is unrest in Japan, and violent unrest.

There is hatred of the United States in Japan, and that also is violent.

YOU KNOW what became of Russian bonds when Russia violently got rid of the Czar.

What will happen to Japanese bonds, if Japanese violence ever gets rid of the Mikados.

That question interests those that buy bonds "to be paid for by Japanese yet unborn." Better invest in America.

MR. S. D. CONGER "sees the doom of Sovietism."

Bolshevism must die out, it seems, because there won't be any more Lenins to keep it going, and without Lenins you can't lead a revolution.

That's probably what some of the French nobles said, and hoped, when Mirabeau died. But then Danton came up, ten times as powerful as Mirabeau.

Then arose Robespierre with his desperate courage and "green eyes." He chopped off Danton's head. Then Robespierre went to the guillotine, with his jaw broken and his fighting spirit intact.

THEN UP came Marat, most powerful of the lot, to be murdered by Charlotte Corday. If she hadn't murdered him, there might never have been any Napoleon Bonaparte.

Revolution seems to breed its own leaders. Revolution dies out when the people get tired of it. Leaders are not lacking.

THE UNITED STATES asks Greece why she refuses to permit settlement of Greek territory to Armenians. The Greeks might in turn ask us why we refuse to permit Asiatic colonization here. The best rule is for each country to mind its business. That is about as much as any one country can do successfully. SYMPATHIZE with the Armenians by all means, but don't interfere with any other nation or sovereignty.

MR. COOLIDGE favors a national defence day, or "mobilization day." Governor Bryan, Democratic candidate for Vice-President, opposes it. His running mate, John W. Davis, backs him up in his opposition. Each one to his view, and, of course, peace is very beautiful.

BUT, AFTER ALL, a country may be READY for war without WANTING or bringing it on. And that does not do you any harm. But if you happen NOT to be ready when war does come, that isn't quite so pleasant.

UNION LABOR is with Coolidge, in favor of preparation, and no wonder. Gentle sentimentalists supply the peace talk. But workingmen have to carry the guns and do the fighting.

If they must go out and fight, they would like, at least, to be prepared. They want the right guns and ammunition, plenty of both and, above all, they would want flying machines.

ENOUGH flying machines, "spraying" the enemy with shrapnel, TNT and poison gas, would be the best possible peace makers. If we had enough of those machines only two words, "United States," would be enough to make any other country think earnestly of peace.

PERJURY IS CHARGED BY STATE

Prosecutor Crowe at Franks Trial Shouts Accusation Against Witness

Chicago, Aug. 7 (AP)—Introduction of lay witnesses by the defense in seeking mitigation of punishment for Nathan F. Leopold, Jr., and Richard A. Loeb, confessed murderers of Bobby Franks, whom they had kidnaped, brought from Robert E. Crowe, State's attorney, the shouted charge that one of them had "committed deliberate perjury."

Chicago, Aug. 7.—Miss Lorraine Nathan, former friend of Richard A. Loeb, co-defendant with Nathan F. Leopold, Jr., in the slaying of Robert Franks, was a witness for the defence today.

Dressed in black, trimmed with white, a small black hat, white stockings and slippers, she appeared even younger than her announced age of eighteen. She is light, with brown hair and blue eyes.

Loeb stretched far out of his seat to watch Miss Nathan as she testified.

Previously any effort by the defence lawyers to shorten the trial by elimination of a long list of lay witnesses on both sides failed.

Counsel for the two young slayers offered to dispense with more than a score of witnesses, recruited from the relatives and friends of "Babe" and "Dicky," if the State would agree to a similar reduction in its list of witnesses.

After weighing the proposition behind closed doors for half an hour State's Attorney Crowe turned

DIVING GUARD SAVES MAN IN SOUTH BOSTON

Abraham Richard, 25 years old, of No. 253 Colburn street, East Dedham, was rescued from drowning off Columbus Park, South Boston, today by Life Guard "Bert" LaCorn.

Richard, wading on the beach, stepped into the channel and went over his depth. LaCorn who was on the beach, got into his boat, pulled out to the channel, and, diving overboard, seized the drowning man as he was going down for the second time.

He was taken to the emergency room in the bathhouse, and resuscitated after considerable effort.

Columbus Park is one of the new beaches maintained by the city of Boston, the bathhouse having been opened this year for the first time.

Vigneau got to her side as quickly and had her on his shoulders, in a "fireman's carry," so handily that the water did not close her lungs and realizing this, the guard auContinued on Page 2, Column 4.

Temperatures mounted steadily in Greater Boston today. Humidity made the heat even more intolerable. There were many prostrations. In the congested districts suffering was general and intense.

At one o'clock it was 95, as contrasted with 82 yesterday.

Four deaths have marked the progress of the heat wave in the last few hours.

Conditions in some of the communities outside of Boston have been complicated by a water shortage, a direct result of the heat wave.

RELIEF STILL COMING

At the Weather Bureau, hope was held out in the following forecast:

"Probably thunderstorms this afternoon or tonight; cooler tonight; Friday fair and cool. Fresh southwest and west winds."

At 10 o'clock this morning the mercury registered 87 degrees; at 11 it was 91; at noon it was93, and at 1 the high mark of 95 was reached.

For a time there was a slight westerly breeze which undoubtedly kept down the number of prostrations. It was pretty much overbalanced, however, by the humidity.

VICTIMS OF THE HEAT.

Those who died as a result of the heat in the last few hours were:

Anbe Brezzi, 20, of Savery lane, North Plymouth.

Mrs. Agnes Conroy of Somerville.

Mrs. Mary Cunningham of Worcester.

Charles E. Zuber of Lawrence.

Brezzi died in the water in Little Pond, near Plymouth. A physician said he was so weak after being exposed to the heat that the shock of the cold wate rkilled him.

Klan's Secret Grips and Signs Exposed by Ex-Kleagle

By their signs, you may know the members of the Ku Klux Klan. In today's instalment of "The Confessions of a New England Klansman," the Boston American prints descriptions and photographs of the Klan's signs, grips and symbols.

These are the signs used by Klansmen when they are among strangers. They tackle the danger sign, the sign of recognition, the response. Simply as they seem, they constitute the Klan's code of communication. An ex-Kleagle reveals them.

By AN EX-KLEAGLE.
ARTICLE NO. 3.

GRIPS, signs and symbols—they constitute no small part of the appeal of the Ku Klux Klan.

Joiners we had with us before the Klan was heard of. In men there is a universal and rather pathetic desire to "belong."

To have a grip another man has not, to recognize a sign that your neighbor sees uncomprehendingly; that is something.

Klan grips, signs and symbols, unlike Klan ritual, are simple. They are serviceable. They seldom change.

Sign of Recognition

First comes the sign of recognition. Two men meet. One is a klansman. He suspects that the other is, but is a little bit afraid to commit himself.

The first klansman elevates his left hand and slowly strokes his chin. If he gets no gleam of recognition he has made a harmless gesture.

If the other is a klansman, he elevates his left hand and spreads his fingers across the tip of his nose, mouth and the upper part of his chin.

Then it established that both belong. But not beyond danger of error, so there still remains the grip.

The klansman who wishes to initiate the conversation extends his right hand, palm upward.

(This is one of the few in-

BIG GARMENT STRIKE VOTE BEING TAKEN

A general strike of the thousands of men and women of Boston identified with the Amalgamated Clothing Workers of America is anticipated.

Workers employed in the making of men's garments in scores of shops in Boston meet today in the Columbia Theatre and vote whether or not they will strike. General sentiment among the workers apparently is in favor of a strike.

The question at stake involves the recent agreement signed between the employers and the workers in New York. It is said that these conditions have been observed by the employers in New York and Chicago, but have been disregarded in Boston and Baltimore.

Sidney Hillman, president of the Union, is to address today's meeting at which many leading officers of the union will be present.

Plans have gone forward in preparation for a strike and the union officials declare that if the vote is favorable to a strike the men's clothing manufacturing industry in Boston will be completely paralyzed.

All the members of the union have been instructed by circular to quit their places of employment at 3 P. M. today and proceed to the meeting place to cast their strike votes. The officers of the union, it is announced, are prepared to wage an unrelenting warfare until the employers observe the same conditions that are in force in the industry in New York and Chicago.

Frank Rosenblum, general executive of the Amalgamated Clothing Workers of America; Frank Bellanca, editor of a labor paper; J. Bikampus, general organizer, and Joseph Salerne, general organizer and chairman of the meeting, will address the assembled workers today.

In the meantime, Sol Seidman, vice-president and general organizer of the International Garment Workers' Union, has announced that a majority of the employers of the members of the union he represents has agreed to the union terms and there will be no strike in this branch of the garment industry.

SAYS NEW EVIDENCE FOUND

Also Claims That One Former Juryman Was an Ex-Convict

Massachusetts State Branch of the American Federation of Labor today passed a resolution demanding a new trial for Sacco and Vanzetti, the men convicted in the South Braintree payroll murders.

Sylvester J. McBride of Boston, a leader in the Typographical Union, introduced the resolution.

Nicola Sacco Bartholomew Vanzetti

It was supported by John Van Vareney of the Clear Makers' Union. The latter charged that one of the men on the original jury was an ex-convict who had served fifteen years in State prison, and changed his name after he was released.

"But the main reason for a new trial is the new evidence," he concluded, and swung a sack of papers high above his head.

The resolution set forth that the best interests of all the people in Massachusetts and America would be served by a new trial. It argued that the men were "entitled to another day in court, and before another jury."

A resolution condemning the Metropolitan District Commission for hiring non-union musicians for various public concerts were passed.

This resolution was extremely vigorous, and termed the concerts "rotten."

stances in which a Klan sign is given with the right hand; obviously it is not expedient to offer to shake hands with the left hand.)

The klansman being sounded out extends his hand, palm downward, and they clasp.

If the second klansman wishes to be recognized, he slowly turns the hand of the other until the respective positions are reversed; until his own hand lies palm upward, and the first man's palm faces down.

The Danger Sign

That is the finish of the test. Recognition is final.

Foolish as the signs and the grips may be, taken singly, they constitute, together, a test of recognition which has proved its worth.

It is just as well to state here that Klan authorities do not smile upon this interchange of signs and grips on the street. Always there is the chance of some amazing coincidence which will lead a Kluxer into a trap.

Kleagles and king kleagles impress upon the novices that they are engaged in a great enterprise, not playing at some childish game. They are told to use the grip and sign of the order only when it is absolutely necessary.

Then there is the danger sign, which is the one oftenest given in public.

Signal of Warning

If one klansman sees another in conversation with an alien who is suspected of being anti-Klan; and if he has reason to believe the second Kluxer does not know this, and is on the point of making damaging admissions, he naturally desires to warn him.

In fact, it is imperative that he warn him, under the oath, even if he has to loose the pair as they stand conversing.

The signal is a slow movement of the fingers of the right hand; a sort of spreading of the fingers. If the man to whom the warning is directed gets it, he answers by moving the fingers of his left hand, in the same fashion.

And the alien gets no more information that day.

Vote With Left Hand

In their meetings, Kluxers vote with the left hand, not by voice. To vote "nay" they drop the hand down by their sides, with fingers extended, and then raise it slowly. To vote "aye" they reverse the process, elevating the hand first and then dropping it below the knee.

Why the members of the Klux Klan are made to do certain things in a certain way even old Klansmen do not know.

But I plan to explain some of the simple mysteries of the kluxers' rites today and tomorrow.

For instance, the left hand is used so much "to be different;" because of some mystic symbolism; and, also, to disguise members when they are in their robes. It is felt that most men are right handed. In making a right handed motion, they might disclose a trick of movement which would betray them even in their robes.

In nearly all movements of the hand the fingers are extended slightly. That is symbolism, too, to indicate the spreading flame of the fiery cross.

When a klansman first is admitted he is a citizen of the invisible Empire; the second year he is a white kamelia; then he becomes a full fledged klansman. Some go ahead faster, but that is the usual way.

That explains one of the main mysteries of Klan growth. If a klansman likes to split hairs, he can, when asked if he is a klansman, say no, and justify blue-it to himself by reflecting that he is only a lonely citizen of the empire of even a white kamelia.

Technically he is right. Actually he is a klansman, engaged in their enterprises, committed to their policies, opposed to those things the Klan opposes.

4900 in Bay State

Massachusetts is full of men who technically are not klansmen but actually are zealous members of the order. Massachusetts is just in process of being organized. There are 4900 Kluxers in the Bay State, or were, a few days ago.

Every one is a voter. The Klan does not want members under twenty-one, although auxiliary branches comprised of children have been formed in some parts of the country.

Klan organizers from Maine and even from Indiana, are in Massachusetts now. When the state finally is organized it will be, temporarily, under the jurisdiction of the king kleagle of the Realm of Maine.

In some parts of Massachusetts the prevailing rate for new members is $2 per person. It is understood that in hostile territory, where organization is usually difficult, organizers get more.

Women Members

Women as well as men pay their $10 when they are admitted. Certainly klaverns composed entirely of women will be formed.

There are known as klanswomen, except those who are in their second year. Then they are ladies of the White Kamelia.

Officers of the women's lodges are told about the same as those in the men's organization.

In addition to the initial fee each member pays $5 a year dues, contributes to the various campaign funds when he is able, and buys a Kluxer uniform for about $6.50.

When a new member is initiated he is measured for a hood and robe. It is not compulsory that he get them. But every night the kleagle points out the wisdom of getting regalia.

Tailors who are members of the Klan do the measuring. Already in several Massachusetts cities, people are beginning to wonder at the prosperity of merchant tailors who are suspected of Klan affiliations.

(Copyright, 1924, by the Boston American.)

Tomorrow's Ku Klux article will deal with the adventure of the ex-alien whom we have seen initiated; with the manner in which Klan officers support themselves; with the Klan's Secret Service, and other matters.

HOW THE K. K. K. SIGNAL

Once the coast is clear the signals flow more freely. At the top is the hand-shake, first motion. If the signals are mutual, the hand-shake continues, the saluted man slowly turning his hand until the position is reversed.

In the lower picture is shown the danger signal. If a Klansman is talking to a stranger, and another Klansman sees him and knows the party is an "Anti," he extends his hand, open, with fingers apart.

ried her along the beach, through the State bathhouse and into the fireside room where restoratives revived her after fifteen minutes.

GRATEFUL TO AMERICAN.

Vigneau is a member of the Boston American Volunteer Life-Saving Corps and was engaged in instructing new volunteers, his worth having been recognized by Red Cross officials whose experts are training the American's corps.

"I feel that I owe my life to Mr. Vigneau and the Boston American," said Mrs. Cooperstein, after she had been assisted to her home and put to bed.

"I felt the water close over my head and then it seemed that for hours I was laying on the surface but could not see land or sky—nothing but waves. All the time—it was only a few moments in reality—I was unconscious on the bottom."

VIGNEAU TO RESCUE.

Vigneau was busily instructing a group of volunteers, assisted by Arthur Falkson of Brookline and Pauline Klein of Rosendale, other instructors, watched by hundreds of bathers, when a woman's screams told him that some one was in danger.

At a distance, he saw Mrs. Cooperstein slip beneath the waves in water shoulder-deep. The two State lifeguards, one in a boat, the other ashore, were at the other end of their patrol which covers only the area in front of the State Bathhouse.

Vigneau left his class of Boston American volunteers, keeping his eyes glued to the spot where the woman went under. When he reached the spot, the watchers on the shore saw him go under and come up, bearing the dead weight of the unconscious woman.

He then carried her the length of the bathhouse, through the street tunnel and through the building to the doctor's office where he helped revive her and then returned to finish putting the volunteers through the formal Red Cross test.

50 YEARS EXPERIENCE.

Vigneau is a lifeguard of twenty years' experience. He volunteered for the Boston American corps at Marine Beach two weeks ago and learned a few new kinks in life-saving from the Red Cross instructors, being then made an instructor for the corps.

Mrs. Cooperstein is the wife of Philip Cooperstein, a clothing merchant, and was at Revere with thousands of other mothers. Her three children, Samuel, ten years old; Lillian, six years old, and George, three years old, were with her and saw her rescued.

"I felt myself slipping and tried hard to regain my feet but could not," Mrs. Cooperstein said. "I knew I was in water up to my shoulders and I had a terrible thought of drowning as I sank into the water.

CHOKED FOR MOMENT.

"I choked and coughed for a moment and it seems to me that the guard must have reached me before my lungs were stopped up with the water. When I came to I was in the bathhouse and someone was coaxing me to speak.

"The Boston American has my deepest gratitude for having provided us with men who can protect bathers. With all the people at Revere and other beaches on hot days, lots of protection is needed.

Postal Receipts in Boston Go Above Million Mark

Washington, Aug. 7.—Boston postal receipts for July passed the million-dollar mark and totalled $1,056,380.48, the Postoffice Department announced.

This represented a gain of $73,913.62 over July of last year. Boston continues in fourth place of all cities in the country, but is now closely pressing Philadelphia, which is in third place.

Total receipts for the entire country for the month amounted to $22,727,699.40, which was 7.89 per cent. increase over the corresponding month a year ago.

REJECT PLAN TO CUT FRANKS TRIAL

State Refuses Defence Proposal for Joint Elimination of Lay Witnesses

down and announced that the trial of the young slayers would go on along the lines originally laid down.

Within a few minutes after Crowe had rejected the defence offer counsel for the two boys put on the stand the first of a long list of these lay witnesses to testify to the peculiarities and eccentricities that marked the college careers of Loeb and Leopold.

CLASSMATE CALLED.

He was Alex Shrayer, a classmate of Loeb at the University of Michigan, one of more than a score of college classmates of the young slayers summoned by the defence.

Shrayer said he had known Loeb for years and "knew him very well at college."

Shrayer declared "Dicky" had always been nervous at college, that he drank a great deal at times and that he was a persistent cigarette smoker.

Shrayer said that Dicky had twitching of the hands and features and that he had seen him faint several times.

"How about his responsibility?" asked Darrow.

"Well, he was the type of individual we didn't trust very much—" began the witness, but Crowe broke in with an objection, which was sustained.

READ DIME NOVELS.

Schrayer said he had lived in the same fraternity house with Loeb at Ann Arbor. They were both seniors. A privilege of being a senior, he said, was supervision over freshmen, but this privilege was never granted young Loeb.

"What do you know about his readings?" asked Darrow.

"He was known as a reader of dime novels and detective stories."

"What was he called?"

"I object. It's immaterial," said Crowe before the witness could answer.

Judge Caverly sustained it. Had Schrayer been allowed to answer he probably would have answered "Buster Brugs."

Darrow asked if there was anything peculiar about Loeb's laugh, and Crowe objected. After a wrangle the witness was allowed to reply that Loeb's laugh was loud and boisterous.

THOUGHT HIM CHILDISH.

Darrow's next question was whether Schrayer had formed any opinion as to "the childishness or immaturity" of Dicky.

"It is my impression he was very childish," Schrayer said.

While the attorneys wrangled Schrayer and Loeb's eyes met and they smiled widely at each other.

"Was he argumentative?" asked Darrow.

"Yes, he often argued with the boys about matters that were foolish or irrelevant."

Schrayer said Dicky was a "good student," but he seemed to lack the logical common sense that went with it.

"He was also somewhat impractical," he said.

"Was he normal or abnormal?" asked Darrow.

"Abnormal. He was sort of inferior."

On cross-examination Crowe went after Schrayer hotly.

DON'T TAKE "NUTS."

"You don't take nuts in your fraternity, do you?" asked Crowe sarcastically.

"Not knowingly," replied the witness.

"How many in your fraternity?" asked Crowe.

"About 78."

"Were the rest normal?"

"In most ways."

Under Crowe's persistent questioning about the fraternity, Schrayer said, "many of the boys drank and sometimes some of them got drunk."

Aiding G. A. R.

HERE NEXT WEEK

VANGUARD OF G.A.R. ARRIVES IN HUB

40,000 Veterans and Auxiliary Members Expected Here for Convention

More than five hundred delegates, friends and visitors to the fifty-eighth encampment of the Grand Army of the Republic, which opens here next Sunday have already arrived as an advance guard of the 40,000 expected to take part in the convention.

Among the first to register were Alda L. Hutchinson, national junior president of the Woman's Relief Corps of Oklahoma City, Okla.; Mrs. Emma Stuart Finch of Indianapolis, national president of the Sons of Veterans Auxiliary, of Chicago; Mrs. Emma W. Campbell of Minneapolis, national treasurer of the Woman's Relief Corps, and Sam S. Horn, former mayor of Easton, Pa., commander-in-chief of the Sons of Veterans, U. S. A.

It is expected the parade next Tuesday, which starts at 10 o'clock at Arlington and Beacon streets, will have at least 10,000 veterans in line.

SHORT ROUTE.

From the starting point the parade will move over the following route: Arlington to Boylston, to Tremont to Temple Place to Washington to Adams Square, where it will disband.

Every effort has been made to make this last encampment of the G. A. R. that Boston will probably ever witness, a memorable one. Mayor Curley as head of the executive committee has mapped out an elaborate program which in itself will furnish the veterans and the public plenty of amusement during the week.

MAYOR TO ENTERTAIN.

The arrival here of National Commander-in-Chief of the G. A. R., General Gaylord M. Saltzgaber and official party today, practically opens the convention.

He will be the guest of the Mayor during the three days prior to the official opening on Sunday afternoon in the New Old South Church.

Harbor trips, fireworks, display, dinners, banquets, a real old-fashioned clam bake at Plymouth are on the program for the entertainment of the delegates and the rank and file of the G. A. R.

LIGHTNING WRECKS BED AS TWO CAMBRIDGE CHILDREN SLEEP

FOUND IN HEAP OF PLASTER

Furniture Tossed About as Storm Plays Freaks in Home of Parents

Two children narrowly escaped death, and considerable property damage was caused by freakish lightning in North Cambridge during the electrical storm early today.

The children, Donald and Florence Ross, son and daughter of Walter C. Ross, No. 156 Richdale avenue, North Cambridge, were sleeping in a room on the top floor of the three-story wooden building.

A bolt of lightning ripped through the roof, wrecked the bed on which they were sleeping, tore down into the second floor tenement, and passed through the wall outside.

The dazed children were found in a heap of plaster, but seemed none the worse for their experience. On the second floor the lightning tore holes in the walls and ceiling and tossed furniture about, but did not set fire to anything.

At the home of George V. Douglas, No. 6 Cypress street, a bolt struck the aerial of a radio set, ripped several boards from the front and rear of the house, ignited the table on which the raadio set was standing, and then disappeared on a grounded wire in the rear of the house. An hour afterward Douglas discovered the table ablaze and extinguished it.

CURLEY DEFIES HARVARD BRIDGE REPAIR RULING

Mayor Curley today defied the ruling recently made by Attorney General Benton that Boston should maintain the care of Harvard Bridge during the process of its repairs.

In a letter to Chairman James A. Bailey of the Metropolitan District Commission the mayor points out that "the specifications were drafted for the proposed improvements and the contract awarded without consultation with either officials of the Boston and Cambridge Bridge Commission by any member of your commission.

"Under the circumstances, notwithstanding the opinion of the Attorney General, I have instructed the Public Works Commission of the city of Boston to disregard the ruling of the Attorney General and now desire to serve notice on the Metropolitan District Commission, through you as chairman, that the city of Boston proposes to maintain its original position.

Four Killed by the Heat; Water Supply Is Low

death of Mrs. Mary Cunningham, seventy-eight years old, at her home in Worcester.

At 1:00 the Common kiosk read 98.

Toward noon, prostrations became more frequent.

MANY PROSTRATIONS.

Finley Renney was taken from No. 28 Otis street, East Cambridge, to the Cambridge Relief Hospital. John Archer of No. 20 Kendall street, Roxbury, collapsed at Washington and Moore streets, Cambridge, and was taken to City Hospital.

Amelia Flyn of No. 83 Wheatland street, Dorchester, was overcome at No. 42 Union street and was taken to the Haymarket Relief Hospital. Earlier in the day there were many more.

At all the hospitals in the city preparations for additional victims were made when the noon and 1 o'clock temperatures were read, and their significance was realized.

Horses dropped on the highway during the early afternoon.

WATER SITUATIO SERIOUS.

In the tenement house belt there was no relief. Firemen helped a few of the children, playing hose on them. A few of the more fortunate were able to get away to the beaches. But, for the majority, there was nothing to do but pray for rain.

The water situation is serious. There has been abnormally light rainfall in the last six months. Newton and Brookline have been instructed by the State Department of Health to cease drawing their customary 6,000,000 gallons a day from the Charles River.

Woburn is facing a water famine. They are taking water from Horn Pond, and boiling it before using.

Crops throughout the State are suffering from lack of rain too.

Hull and several other south shore towns have ordered their citizens to discontinue the use of garden hose. Peabody has issued an order to her residents to conserve water. Woburn's artesian wells have run dry. The city is using water from Horn pond and this supply is running low.

The Metropolitan district, supplied by the reservoirs near Clinton, is in better shape than the remainder of the State.

FLOCK TO BEACHES.

Suffering, particularly in the congested districts, is terrible. Early today thousands were on their way to the nearby beaches, the only place where relief from the torrid weather can be found.

The humidity—not the temperature—is the real offender. For the past twenty-four hours the humidity has averaged more than twenty degrees above normal. Scores of persons early today suspended business.

In the North End hundreds of men, women and children spent the night on fire escapes and on the roofs of tenement buildings, seeking relief.

Those prostrated in Boston were Michael Sheehan, thirty-six, of No. 11 Savoy street, overcome in front of No. 848 Washington street; Josephine Campo, sixteen, of No. 6 Cleveland place, prostrated in the Haymarket square subway station; Charles De Vida, twenty-one of No. 68 Algonquin road, Newton, overcome on Bromfield street; Edgar Brown, fifty-seven, of No. 11 Common street, prostrated in front of No. 122 Canal street; George Warey, thirty-two, of No. 217 Allston street, Brighton, overcome in the Atlantic avenue station of the Elevated, and Dorothy Denham, twenty-one, of No. 29 Crescent circle, prostrated at No. 241 Congress street. All but Sheehan were treated at the Relief Hospital.

New York's Population Moves to Parks and Beaches

New York, Aug. 7.—New York ran into another scorching day, with the temperature at 82 at 10 o'clock. The humidity had fallen from 79 to 76. No records are being broken today, however, as the thermometer reached 102 on August 7, 1918. Two deaths, one a suicide, and more than a score of prostrations have been reported in twenty-four hours.

Most of the city's millions seemed to have forsaken their tenements during the night and thronged parks and beaches.

Philadelphia Reads 88; Thunder Storms on Way

Philadelphia, Aug. 7.—The heat wave here claimed a second victim today. At 11 o'clock this forenoon the temperature was 88, two higher than yesterday. Thunderstorms are predicted for late today.

Virginia Still Sizzles: 106 Is Highest Record

Richmond, Va., Aug. 7.—Virginia sizzled today under its most sustained heat wave in years. The thermometer, for the third day, hovered around ninety.

At Winchester, 106 degrees was recorded at the State Orchard Laboratory, and Norfolk showed 103.

Heat Wave Kills Two in Pittsburgh

Pittsburgh, Aug. 7.—Two deaths have been caused by the heat wave, which has held Pittsburgh in its grip this week. A man dropped dead in a street car station yesterday and an infant died this morning. Many prostrations have occurred.

MALDEN MAN HIT BY ENGINE, LEG BROKEN

Philip Goldstein, fifty-five, of No. 45 Newton street, Malden, is at the East Boston Relief Hospital suffering from a broken leg and bruises received when he was struck by a train at the Crescent Beach station of the Boston, Revere Beach & Lynn Railroad. Goldstein crossed the tracks into the path of a shifting engine.

PLOT TO FREE PRISONER IS CHARGE

Two Held for Conspiring to Obtain the Release of Alleged Payroll Bandit

When the police say was a bold and well-planned attempt to get a prisoner out of Charles street Jail by trickery was frustrated today by Inspectors Timothy Sheehan and Maurice Murphy of the auto squad.

George T. Sexton, who is being held for the Rhode Island authorities, was the prisoner whose release was sought.

William Hurley and Joseph Gilbert, both twenty-five, and both of Roxbury, were arrested, charged with conspiring to unlawfully secure the release of a person in custody.

Sexton was arrested Monday, and was ordered held in $5,000. It is alleged that he held up the paymaster of the General Baking Company of Providence last June and got away with $7,800.

Inspectors Murphy and Sheehan heard on another mission, visited the jail today and in passing through the office heard Gilbert and Hurley discussing Sexton.

When the inspectors approached them the two men tried to tear up a paper they had been about to sign and struggled to escape through an open door.

They were overcome. The pieces of paper were placed together, and it was disclosed that they had been negotiating with the jail authorities for Sexton's release on bail.

It is alleged that they misrepresented themselves as men of property, and presented fraudulent papers to show that they owned a $50,000 tract of land on Warren street in Roxbury.

They were taken to headquarters for questioning, but refused to talk.

Only once in the history of the jail has a similar attempt to deliver a prisoner been made. That time it was successful.

Hurley and Joseph Gilbert were held in $5,000 for a hearing August 13.

SIX FINED FOR TROUBLE AT MEETING OF KLAN

Clinton, Aug. 7.—Six defendants were in Clinton District Court today as a result of the rioting at the klan meeting on Ballard Hill, Lancaster, the night of July 30. David Salvator, Andrew Sommis and Louis Druleus of Lancaster were fined $25 each on charges of disturbance. Charles Schumacher, Jr., of Lancaster, was fined $20. William O'Toole and Joseph Flynn of Clinton were found not guilty of drunkenness charges, but were fined 15 on the charges of disturbance.

SOFT COLLAR ROYALTY CLAIM RAISED TO $2,000,000

I. G. Bolton of Philadelphia has petitioned Superior Court that the amount he has asked in his suit against John Mannin Van Heusen, soft collar inventor, who lives in Boston, be increased from $300,000 to $2,000,000. he suit is brought to recover 10 per cent. of profits made by Van Heusen out of his soft collar invention under an alleged agreement of 1918 to pay him that percentage of royalties provided he invented a soft collar and assigned the patent application to him (Van Heusen.)

NEXT LANDING PLACE FOR FLIERS IS FOUND

Washington, Aug. 7.—A safe landing place for the world fliers on their next hop has been located by the army advance party on the east coast of Greenland at Ekaluit, the army air service was informed today.

The proposed base is about 750 miles from Reykjavik from Iceland where the two fliers have been awaiting word of the success of the exploring party. It is expected,that an early resumption of the attempt to "tie in" the 28,000 mile air line around the world will now be made.

Thunderstorms, Then Cool Wave, From Northwest

Washington, Aug. 7.—Relief from the heat wave which has gripped the eastern sections of the country for the last three days, causing several deaths and many prostrations, is promised by tonight or tomorrow morning by the weather man.

A cool wave moving in from the northwest, coupled with possible thunderstorms, is expected to bring a moderation, but not cool weather.

The northern lake regions and the far northwest reported a general temperature of 60 degrees.

The prophecy is hailed with joy throughout the entire eastern seaboard, where for three days the thermometer slowly has mounted to the prostration point.

Washington yesterday experienced the hottest day since 1918.

OLYMPIC GIRL STAR WEDS IN PARIS

MISS LILLIAN SCHARMAN

American tennis star, who became the bride, in the French capital, of William Van Anden Hester, Jr., son of a Brooklyn publisher.

New York, Aug. 7.—Miss Lillian Scharman, one of America's representatives in the Olympic tennis matches was married in Paris to William Van Anden Hester, Jr.

News of the marriage was cabled by Hester to the Brooklyn Eagle whose president, William Van Anden Hester, is the bridegroom's father.

Miss Scharman was one of the American players to compete in the tennis preliminaries of the Olympic games.

Mr. and Mrs. Hester will tour Italy before sailing for home September 13.

WADE'S RELAY PLANE DUE IN HUB TODAY

"Boston II.," the Round-World Craft, Is Expected at Squantum

The Army airplane "Boston 2," which will be turned over to Lieutenant Leigh Wade, to finish his round-the-world trip, when he arrives at Indian Harbor, Labrador, is en route from Langley Field, Va., to Squantum, according to a radio message received by Captain L. H. Knight, in charge of Army aviation in New England.

The craft is being piloted by Lieutenant George C. McDonald and is due to arrive at Squantum some time late this afternoon, probably between 4 and 5 o'clock.

Early tomorrow morning the plane will leave the Squantum field for Pictou, Nova Scotia, and later from Pictou, to Indian Harbor, Labrador, where it will await the arrival of Lieutenant Wade, when it will be turned over to him.

The "Boston 2" is of the same type as the disabled plane piloted by Lieutenant Wade. After turning over the plane, Lieutenant McDonald will start back on one of the navy ships.

London, Aug. 7. (Universal Cable).—Radio from U. S. S. Richmond, via Reykjavik, Iceland says the two airplanes remaining in the American round the world flight may not leave here for several days on account of the Gertrud Rask, Danish steamer, being icebound and unable to land its supplies for the fliers. The fliers may be forced to take supplies from the Rask in open sea.

"It is quite likely that the flight from here will be delayed for five days," said Lieutenant Lowell Smith. "Our supply ship is held up by ice reaching Angamalsak, and we cannot afford to risk a longer flight."

WRECKERS MAY BE TOO YOUNG TO PUNISH

Authorities Puzzled About Boys Who Derailed Train at Stoughton

Norfolk County authorities are puzzled as to what action to take against the two boys who have confessed they caused the wreck of the Newport-Boston express on the New Haven road at Stoughton, in which four were injured, recently.

The boys, Joseph April, seven years old, of No. 890 Washington street, and Alphia Trichkas, nine years old, of No. 9 Walnut street, Stoughton, present a similar case to the two lads who two months ago confessed they placed stones on the Boston & Albany track at Worcester and wrecked the Twilight flyer in which four persons were killed.

The April and Trichkas youths are slightly older than the boys who wrecked the Twilight express, but the authorities feel nothing can be done to them.

SPIKES ON TRACKS.

They have confessed that they placed rail spikes on the tracks and then waited to see what happened when a train came by. The Newport-Boston express came along 20 minutes late, the front wheels of the engine struck the spikes and the engine struck the spikes and cabs of the express was inside the Stoughton station, after knocking down a crossing watchman's shanty, with the watchman inside.

The authorities, following the Worcester wreck, turned the boys over to their parents for punishment. While the Stoughton boys have been tentatively held for the court on a charge of juvenile delinquency it is generally believed they will be turned back to their families.

POLICE NOTIFIED.

The discovery of the culprits, was made by Foreman Gearen of the local section gang on Tuesday just in time to avert a similar disaster. The boys were found putting spikes on the rails at a point near where the other accident happened.

Chief Vanson was notified and, together with Lieutenant John H. Hamilton of Providence and Lieutenant George Walsh of Taunton, both members of the New Haven police, he obtained a confession from the boys. They stated that they put four coupling spikes on the rails about twenty minutes before the express was due. When asked why they did it they answered, "just for fun."

VETERANS ARE WARNED TO RENEW POLICIES

Announcement was made by the Boston office of the War Veterans' Bureau that under provisions of the World War veterans' act passed June 7, 1924, all term insurances or converted insurance must be reinstated within one year after the passage of the act, or within two years after the date of lapse or cancellation, and that no term insurances will be reinstated or converted after July 2, 1926.

Mrs. Nathaniel Thayer, Boston Leader, Golfing at Newport

By Betty Alden

WHAT more stately dowager of Boston's far-famed "four hundred" is there than Mrs. Nathaniel Thayer?

For years the former Pauline Revere has been a reigning figure of the famous Assemblies, the all-important affairs to which are bidden only those of Boston's "first-families" contingent.

During the war there were no Assemblies. Which caused as much joy to some as it did sorrow to others. In other words, the Assemblies served as a barrier most disastrous to those known as "social-climbers."

Two Winters ago these imposing functions were resumed, and once more did the charmed inner circle assemble without fear of unwelcome intrusion.

I recall that at the last Assembly Mrs. Thayer and Mr. Hooper-Hooper of cotillion-leader fame, were really the leading spirits of the evening. Mrs. Thayer, a distinctive figure in pearl-gray, was quite as regal looking as ever.

To be a stately matron invested with all manner of social power is one thing—to drive the "little white pill" over the greensward swiftly and cleanly is another.

Yet Mrs. Thayer does both. And in a golf tournament held at the Country Club in Newport the other day, Mrs. Thayer and Richard Van Nest Gambrill won the prizes offered by Mrs. Wm. Gosdby Loew for the Tombstones mixed foursome tournament. Their victory came on the eighteenth green, with a total of 86 strokes.

Quite a victory, since no small portion of Newport's golf-devoted colony was taking part in the affair.

Incidentally, the prominent Boston matron, whose Winter residence is on Fairfield street, has delved deeply into immigration problems, and not a little of her time has been spent behind a desk up at the State House helping to solve some of these problems.

SPEAKING of Mrs. Thayer reminds me that if the Boston colony at Newport is quite small, it is none the less a very active one.

Both Rear Admiral Cameron Winslow and two of his daughters, the Misses Theodora and Emilie Winslow, have made an excellent showing in the spirited matches now being played on the Casino courts.

Admiral Winslow and pretty Emilie—a "debbie" of last Winter—reached the semi-finals in the mixed doubles championship. They were defeated by Mrs. Henry C. Gray and Suydam Cutting after three hotly contested sets, 4-6, 6-1, 6-3. Mrs. Lewis Gouverneur Morris and A. J. Drexel Biddle, Jr., won the mixed doubles.

NEWCOMERS to the Manchester colony are Mr. and Mrs. Harrison G. Reynolds (Jean Fletcher) who have "The Oaks" on Proctor street. With them is their infant son.

Mrs. Reynolds is the daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Andrew Fletcher of New York, her marriage to the Boston man taking place about two years ago.

DR. LE CONTE, FAMOUS SURGEON, KILLS SELF

Philadelphia, Aug. 7.—Dr. Robert Grier Le Conte, one of the ablest surgeons in America, committed suicide today in the house in which he has been living alone for some time. Dr. Le Conte was born in Long Branch, N. J. He studied at the University of Pennsylvania and in Berlin, Vienna, Paris and London. During the Spanish-American War he was a surgeon in the navy. From 1901 to 1904 he was surgeon-general of Pennsylvania. He was a former president of the American Surgical Association.

NEW YORK BETTING ODDS ON COOLIDGE 2½ TO 1

New York, Aug. 7.—The odds are 2½ to 1 at Fred Schumm's that Coolidge will be the next President. Even money has been placed on Al Smith to accept a renomination and the odds are 5 to 4 that he carries the State if renominated. President Coolidge is an even money bet to carry this State.

SOCIETY NOTES

MRS. GERALD HALL GRAY has returned from Europe and is spending a few days with Mr. Gray at the Vanderbilt in New York before coming on to Boston.

Mr. and Mrs. W. MacNeil Rodewald, Jr., of Tuxedo Park are in Bar Harbor at the Malvern. Mrs. Rodewald, previous to her marriage a year ago last June, was Miss Dorothea Codman of Boston.

Mrs. Theodore P. Grosvenor, of the Boston colony at Newport, and Miss Rosaldie Bloodgood have been added to the list of teams to compete in the women's doubles at the Casino.

Mrs. Charles W. Cheney of Boston has been spending a few days in Gotham at the Lorraine.

Mr. and Mrs. Stanley G. Mortimer of Tuxedo are spending six weeks at Manchester-by-the-Sea.

Dr. and Mrs. D. Hunter McAlpin entertained twenty guests at dinner the other evening at their estate at Seal Harbor, Me.

Mr. and Mrs. Frederick W. Busk of Chestnut Hill are with Mrs. Busk's parents, Mr. and Mrs. Sewall H. Fessenden at the Fessenden Summer home at Coolidge Point, Manchester.

BOSTON RETAIL FOOD PRICES SHOW INCREASE

Boston is reported as among the fourteen cities where the retail cost of food is on the upgrade, according to a report made today by the Department of Labor. Five cities noted a decline. Boston and Indianapolis reported the largest increases, amounting to 3 per cent, during the past few months the retail cost of food in Boston has been on the up grade, but not until this past month was it considered as high as 3 per cent. The five cities showing a decrease in retail food costs are Cincinnati, Atlanta, Norfolk, Louisville and Fall River.

SAYS ROOSEVELT PLEDGED U. S. TO AID JAPAN

Tyler Dennett Has a Photograph of Agreement Made in 1908

Williamstown, Aug. 7.—An agreement hitherto unpublished between President Roosevelt and Japan was brought to light during the meeting of one of the round-table sections of the Institute of Politics in session here today. Tyler Dennett, author and traveler of note, disclosed the document in his address.

"I have in my possession the photograph of an agreement made on July 29, 1908," said Dennett, "which placed the United States during the period of the Roosevelt administration almost in the position of an unsigned member of the second Anglo-Japanese alliance."

According to Dennett, the purported conversation and resultant memorandum hinged on Japan's denial of a desire to possess the Philippines. In return, Roosevelt, it was reported, thought he could assure the Japanese that the "American people would be glad to act with the Japanese and the British people for the preservation of the peace of the Far East."

Roosevelt also told the Japanese, according to the speaker, he believed Japan would be "fully justified in establishing a protectorate over Korea and in taking charge of her foreign relations."

ZR-3 in Test Flight, Aug. 25, Berlin Announces

By O. D. TOLISCHUS

Berlin, Aug. 7 (Universal Cable).—After a delay of a year, America's new giant airship, the ZR-3, will be completed this month according to announcement by the Zeppelin Airship Company.

The Maybach motors for which the airship has been waiting, are ready for delivery. The first test flight is expected August 25. The general inspection of the ship is set for August 30.

U. S. TO DISCUSS ONLY GERMAN REPARATIONS

Ambassador Kellogg Explains Stand to Be Taken at Paris Conference

London, Aug. 7 (I.N.S.).—Ambassador Frank B. Kellogg's letter announcing that the United States will participate in the proposed conference of ministers of finance in Paris after the conclusion of the London reparations parley does not mean that the United States is willing to discuss interallied war debts, it was explained at the American embassy today.

The United States refuses to discuss war debts at this time, maintaining they are definite financial obligations which do not admit of discussion except as to the manner in which they shall be paid.

It is understood here that the Paris conference will be confined only to discussion of the distribution of German reparations.

WOMEN GUESTS INSPECT BIG FOOD PLANT

WNAC American Women's Club Members Guests of A. & P. at Somerville

Bread-making and the packing of foodstuffs was explained in detail to more than 200 members of the WNAC American Women's Club, who held their first annual inspection outing at the Great Atlantic & Pacific food plant, Fitchburg street, Somerville.

The modern food shop was explained to the interested spectators from every angle by a group of attendants placed at the club's disposal by the officials of the Atlantic & Pacific concern.

The women were taken from the South Station in special street cars to the plant.

Martha Lee — Jean Sargent

Dinner was served them at the cafeteria and the visitors were extended the freedom of the plant.

White-uniformed employes led them to the top floor, where a laundry, for the exclusive use of employes, is maintained. The next visit was to the storeroom, where the thousands of bags of flour are kept. Cleanliness was the main point that interested the members of the WNAC American Women's Club.

The most interesting department of the entire plant, however, was the huge bakery, covering three floors of the big building. Here the attendants explained in detail the methods used to turn out bread for home consumption.

Attendants also explained how salad dressing is put up for the A. & P. stores throughout Greater Boston.

Stuffed olive bottling and the manufacture of bluing completed the tour.

Robert E. Treman, superintendent of the plant, then described the growth of the stores he represents. Today, he said, there are 11,000 stores, furnished by a score of food plants and several plantations in South America.

GIFTS FOR GUESTS.

Each guest was then presented with a freshly baked loaf of bread, a box of candy turned out at the shop and a bottle of salad dressing.

The outing was under the direction of the following hostesses:

Miss Jean Sargent of Station WNAC, Mrs. Jose A. Barbour, Mrs. Frank J. Simpson, Mrs. E. R. Pitt, Mrs. Francis H. Bishop, Mrs. Canning E. Marden, Mrs. Ethel T. Joslin, Mrs. A. F. Ryan, Mrs. R. K. Neptune, Mrs. M. B. Chenwell and Miss Gertrude Cunningham.

DAVIS NO KLAN MEMBER, HIS LETTER SAYS

Will Make Position on Religious Tolerance Clear in Acceptance Speech

New York, Aug. 7.—John W. Davis, in a letter made public today, declared he is not a member of the Ku Klux Klan, and never has been a member. The letter was written in answer to one sent to Mr. Davis by Devere Allen, editor of a magazine called The World, published here.

According to Thomas J. Spellacy, manager of the Davis Eastern campaign headquarters, Mr. Allen in his letter called the attention of Mr. Davis to the charge that the nominee was a member of the Ku Klux Klan, and asked specifically if this was true. Mr. Davis replied:

"In reply to your letter, which has been brought to my attention, I answer the question in the same direct manner you have put it; by saying that I am not, never have been, and will not become a member of the Ku Klux Klan.

"I trust that in my coming speech of acceptance I shall make my position on the great question of religious tolerance too plain for any misunderstanding or dispute."

HUSBAND SAID WHY NOT TRY IT

Wife Said She Would. Result, Lydia E. Pinkham's Vegetable Compound Made Her Well and Strong

East Hardwick, Vermont.—"Last winter I was not able to do any work at all. I had backache, headache, sideache, and was sick all the time for six months. We read about Lydia E. Pinkham's Vegetable Compound in the newspapers, and my husband said to me, 'Why don't you try it?' So I said I would, and he went and got me a dozen bottles. It has done me more good than I can ever tell, and my friends say, 'What have you done to yourself? You look so well.' I tell them it is the Vegetable Compound that makes me so well and strong. There is no use to suffer with backache and pains. I will tell every one what it has done for me."—Mrs. FRED. PRIMO, Route No. 2, E. Hardwick, Vermont.

Housewives make a great mistake in allowing themselves to become so ill that it is well-nigh impossible for them to attend to their household duties. 98 out of every 100 report they were benefited by its use. For sale by druggists everywhere.

HUNDREDS OF AUTOISTS HELD UP; 25 SEIZED

Goodwin's Agents in a Campaign to Enforce the Registration and Light Laws

Hundreds of autoists were held up and more than 25 arrested by agents and inspectors of Registrar Frank A. Goodwin's department.

Eleven inspectors, assisted by Chief of Police James and five officers of the Hingham police department, held up and examined the licenses of operators and inspected the lights and brakes of 500 cars on the Broad Cove boulevard in Hingham. Summons will be sent to the violators. Liquor was found in a number of automobiles.

More than 25 automobilists operating without licenses, were arrested when Inspector Fred L. Mayes of the Goodwin department and a squad of officers held up all autos passing Mayesville avenue at Revere street for examination of headlights.

Out of several hundred stopped more than half did not have proper license certificates and were sent home by them. Between 15 and 20 had headlight lenses and tail lights not authorized by the department and these were given "blue tickets," which means their registrations will be revoked.

Red Light on Wrist New Traffic Police Signal to Stop

New York, Aug. 7.—A new device for traffic-directing—a small red light attached like a wrist watch to the policeman's hand—has been introduced here.

It consists of a two-inch bull's-eye operated by an electric battery in the traffic patrolman's hip pocket.

Everybody Has Some Secret Superstition; What's Yours?

Our Pet 'Jinx Killers'

NEARLY everyone admits some secret superstition. Is any of these one of your favorites? Do you—

Sit down and count ten when you are obliged to go back to the house after a forgotten article?

Refuse to open an umbrella indoors?

Scratch the left palm on wood when it itches in order to receive money from an unexpected source?

Flip a coin for luck?

Refuse to step on sidewalk cracks?

Wish on identical remarks uttered simultaneously?

Hold that it is unlucky to give a friend a sharp gift?

Believe that to enter by one door and leave by another brings company to the house?

Throw a pinch of salt over the left shoulder to prevent a quarrel?

Turn around and go back if a black cat crosses the path?

Refuse to sit 13 at a table?

Believe that singing before breakfast brings bad luck?

Remark "Bread and butter" when a post comes between yourself and a companion?

Walk on the outside of a leaning ladder?

Believe that an itching nose or burning ears indicate that you are being talked about?

Believe that a girl who sits on a table or stumbles up the stairs will not marry for a year?

Believe that to see a spider before a meal means good luck?

Elisabeth Herlihey

BLACK CATS, MY GOSH!

MICHAEL J. WARD, of the Mayor's office, says he's chock full of superstitions.

"Why, I wouldn't even let the barber part my hair in the middle this morning. I have parted it on the side for ten years, and when he said I was getting bald and started to part it in the middle, I almost jumped out of the chair. Something certainly would happen if I made any change in it.

"And black cats! My gosh, if I met a black cat in the morning going to work, I'd have the heebie jeebies!"

Standish Wilcox

EMPTY BARRELS

STANDISH WILLCOX, of the Mayor's office, says it's empty barrels with him.

"It's an absolute fact," says Wilcox. "If I'm on my way to a horse race and see a load of empty barrels, I can put my money on an undertaker's horse and watch it romp first over the line.

"The significance of the barrels is a hang-over from an old Mardi Gras legend in New Orleans."

Michael J. Ward

LIKES NO. 13

JOHN NOYES, Chairman of the Street Commission, won't go under a ladder, but has a liking for the number thirteen.

"I always play No. 13 for a hotel or stateroom when I can get it," says Noyes. "Nothing has ever happened to me, either, although people who are afraid of the number sometimes have unpleasant experiences with it.

"I was appointed to my present job on a Tuesday, but I waited until Friday to begin it because Friday is my lucky day."

John Noyes

OFF WOMAN BIDDERS

DR. DAVID JOHNSON, Institutions Commissioner, says he wouldn't bid against a woman at an auction sale.

"My father would never buy property or land for which a woman was bidding. I guess I've got his trait. I've been at an auction when I saw a beautiful China set I wanted, but when I saw a woman bidding, I gave it up. It's a funny habit, all right."

Dr. David Johnson

WISHES ON THE HAY

MISS ELISABETH HERLIHEY, of the City Planning Board, never lets a load of hay go by without wishing on it.

"It's a childhood habit," laughs Miss Herlihey. "Up in Wilton, N. H., where I was born, I always used to wish on a load of hay and I haven't gotten over my affinity for hay, nor my practice of wishing on it."

THEM CATS, AGAIN

FRANK ROCK, purchasing agent in the Institutions Department, says an ugly hunch that something is going to happen, follows an encounter with a black cat.

"A black cat running in front of my car makes me feel queer," he confesses. "If I had my way, I'd have all the black cats whitewashed."

TRAIN KILLS 3 WHERE 1 DIED DAY BEFORE

Men Take Detour on Way to Work to View Fatal Grade Crossing

New Brunswick, N. J., Aug. 7.—Three men were killed and two severely injured when the automobile in which they were riding was struck by a Pennsylvania Railroad passenger train at Voorhee's Crossing today.

The victims, all employes of the Public Service Company, impelled by curiosity, went to the grade crossing, where a woman was killed and two others injured yesterday. Instead of driving directly to work, it was decided to make a detour and view the scene of the accident to others.

The dead are: Thomas Miller, Ray Cole and John Schaska, all of New Brunswick.

At St. Peter's Hospital, where Raymond Soden and Curtis Clark, the other members of the party, were taken, it was said their condition was serious.

TYPHOON HITS FORMOSA; 200 MISSING

Nagasaki, Japan, Aug. 7 (A.P.)—A typhoon has swept the Island of Kiushiu and Formosa. The railways everywhere are interrupted and the telephone and telegraph lines of Kiushiu are paralyzed. A flood is reported at Taihoku, capital of Formosa.

Two hundred persons are missing and many are believed dead as a result of floods along the Tamsui River in northern Formosa.

The seaports of Osaka and Kobe in southern Honshiu, the principal island of the Japanese group, are unaffected.

The island of Formosa is the most southerly of the Japanese possessions and directly south of it is the line that separates Japanese jurisdiction from that which the United States government exercises over the Philippines.

Hong Kong is within short distance of Formosa, but apparently all lines of communication have been interrupted and the British government has been unable to learn anything from the stricken territory.

It is believed the typhoon may have done considerable damage to other islands than those at first reported as the Formosa straight, separating the island from China, and adjacent waters are dotted with small islands, all inhabited and all in the path of the typhoon.

BRITAIN READY TO CRUSH UPRISING IN BENGAL

Calcutta, India, Aug. 7 (A.P.)—British authorities will use every means to defeat the revolutionary menace in the Bengal, the Earl of Lytton, the Governor, declared in an address at Dacca.

BOSTON POLICE HALT U. S. RUM RAIDERS

Newburyport, Aug. 7.—Boston Federal prohibition agents raided a farm house on Low street and confiscated six hundred cases of Scotch whiskey. The liquor, according to local police, was to have been turned over to bootleggers some time today.

First intimation that there had been a liquor raid came through an order to Boston and suburban police to capture two trucks, trailed by men in touring cars. The order said they were bogus prohibition agents, and probably well armed.

Roxbury trucks and men were united. Police demanded the agents show credentials. Suspecting forgeries the officers took all to Station 10.

Ultimately convinced that the Federal agents were legitimate, police released them and sent along a protecting guard to the Federal Storage House on Columbus avenue.

DISABLED SOLDIERS' LEAGUE IS UNDER BAN

Washington, Aug. 7.—The National Disabled Soldiers' League today came under the ban of the United States Veterans' Bureau. Director Hines announcing the organization "is not recognized by the Federal agency having to do with relief for the war's disabled." This organization has no standing before the Veterans' Bureau and is not recognized in a co-operative relationship as are the American Red Cross, American Legion and the Disabled American Veterans, Hines said.

SOVIET TREATY A "FAKE," SAYS LLOYD GEORGE

"Contract on Which Every Essential Figure Is Left Blank"

London, Aug. 7 (A.P.)—"This is a fake—a contract in which every essential figure is left blank," exclaimed former Premier Lloyd George in the House of Commons in a sharp criticism of the proposed agreement with Soviet Russia. His phrase is indorsed by the majority of the morning newspapers which fully share in the amazement with which the Conservatives and most of the Liberals received the announcement by Arthur Ponsonby, under secretary for foreign affairs, that a commercial treaty and a general treaty had been arranged with the Soviets.

IMOGENE PROUD OF TINNEY LOVE AFFAIR

Declares Women Unjust in Thinking She Broke Up Actor's Home

New York, Aug. 7. (Universal)—Imogene Wilson tells it to the world at large!

With the memory music of the Ziegfeld "Follies" ringing in her ears, she disclosed for publication what she really thinks of her notorious affair with Frank Tinney.

She is proud of it.

She said:

"I have known Frank Tinney two years. I have loved him two years. I shall never love again. I have no regrets."

EYES GLEAM ICILY.

She lolled on one of two twin beds in a boudoir at the Hotel Ambassador as she gave the interview. It was hot. Imogene wore only a single garment, a white silk dress with perpendicular blue stripes. Sometimes she sat on the edge of the bed and swung her legs.

At earnest moments, her blue eyes, cold and perfect as those of a white Persian kitten, gleamed icily. She revealed hitherto hidden inch-dents in her relationship with Tinney.

Here is her story in her own words:

"I know that the women of America—especially the married women—are cursing me. They think I broke up the Tinney home. But that is unjust.

FRANK TOLD OF LOVE.

"I am not going to sail for Europe. I may never see Frank again. But I shall always love him. I know he loves me.

"If Frank Tinney didn't love me, he wouldn't have forgiven me for all the harm I did him. He sent for me to see him off. Those last hours were the most beautiful in my life.

Miss Wilson said that Tinney's last words to her, while the whistle was blowing for the boat to start were:

"Remember, Bubbins, I love you. I love you next to my little boy. You know I love my little boy next to God."

She went on:

"I didn't take Frank Tinney away from Mrs. Tinney. She hasn't had Frank for three years. She didn't have him for a year before I met him. You know she is older than he is and he is her third husband.

DENIES BEING WILFUL.

"People have pictured me as a wanton, wilful girl, who pursued Frank Tinney. They are wrong. Frank Tinney was a beautiful, sweet, natural child whom I delighted to shower with affection.

"He had a brilliant, clever mind which inspired me. He was a bad boy who needed me to guide him and hold him steady. He was an egotistical, wise and brave soul to whom I could come with my troubles and get strength and encouragement.

"And, yes, he was my pal, too, and I was his, for our love had warmth and firelike well as depth and sweetness. I am not sorry that I loved him, though it has cost me dearly, more dearly than the world will ever know."

PASSENGERS REMOVED FROM DISABLED BOAT

Providence, Aug. 7.—The steamer Mineola of the People's Excursion Line of Pawtucket lost a propeller wheel after passing through the India street bridge at India Point. The vessel was docked, the passengers transferred to the steamer Island Belle, and the trip continued. The Mineola was later towed to the Providence Drydock Company for repairs.

BUSINESS COMING BACK, SAYS BETHLEHEM HEAD

New York, Aug. 7.—"Steel bookings are picking up, and that is a good barometer of business," said Eugene G. Grace, president of the Bethlehem Steel Corporation, on his return from abroad.

"In England and France," Grace continued, "conditions are better than most people suppose. The unemployment situation in England has been somewhat exaggerated.

"I am optimistic regarding business conditions for this Fall in America and I look for business to forge ahead."

LATER WILL GIVES MORE TO MRS. CARMICHAEL

Discovery of a lost will drawn by Professor Henry Carmichael, famous botanist, who died at his home, No. 1 Highland terrace, Malden, early this year, more than twenty years ago, gives to his wife an additional estate of $100,000, it is revealed.

AMERICAN SCULPTOR HONORED BY FRANCE

Paris, Aug. 7.—The French government has raised Paul Wayland Bartlett, the American sculptor, to the dignity of a commander of the Legion of Honor. Mr. Bartlett was decorated as an Officer of the Legion of Honor in 1905. Among others decorated with the cross of a Knight of the Legion of Honor are Anna Klumpke, an American artist, who was born in San Francisco; Professor Paul Philippe Cret, the noted Philadelphia architect; Bishop Grouard of Canada, and Mrs. Godoy de Cobo of Argentina.

PRISONER, 19, RECAPTURED IN LYNN WOODS

Lad Who Escaped From Salem Jail Trapped After a Visit to Relatives

Asa Hoyt Hoeg, nineteen, who escaped from Salem jail Saturday, was captured today in the woods near Meadow Park, East Lynn.

Hoeg, who had been visiting relatives in the vicinity, told Patrolman Thomas Winsor, who captured him, that he was on the point of leaving for distant parts.

During a recreation period at the Salem jail, Hoeg went to the top floor and prying down plaster surrounding pipes in the ceiling, made his way to an attic. He then got out a window and slid down a waterspout to the yard, making his getaway.

Hoeg said he had gone to Portsmouth, but wishing to visit his relatives before leaving this part of the country, went to East Lynn.

He had served one and a half years of a three-year sentence for breaking and entering and larceny, having requested the judge to send him to Salem rather than to State prison. It is probable he will now be transferred to Charlestown and forced to serve an additional sentence.

BREWSTER WINS ON MAINE RECOUNT

Defeated Candidate at June Primaries Seems to Have Passed Farrington

Portland, Me., Aug. 7.—That State Senator Ralph O. Brewster of this city will be the Republican candidate for Governor at the State election on September 8 seemed probable today when the Governor and Council resumed their hearing on the fraudulent voting in Ward 4, one of Portland's strongest Democratic wards.

It was planned to hold an executive session immediately after the close of the hearing, and it was expected a decision would be announced soon afterward of the result of the State-wide recount which has been in progress the last month of the 84,000 Republican votes cast in the June primaries.

The reversing of the official result was said to be conceded by friends of Frank G. Farrington of Augusta, president of the Maine Senate, who had been given a certificate of nomination, showing a plurality of 320. Brewster at the conclusion of the recount outside of Ward 4 had a plurality of 623.

In Ward 4, where it was alleged more than 400 of the 871 votes cast for Brewster and Farrington were fraudulent only the vote of those who appear before the executive council and declare for whom they voted, will be counted.

Only 319 persons had appeared when the third session opened today. Eighty-six testified they had not voted, though their names were checked on the voting lists. Eighty-seven voted for Brewster and 42 for Farrington.

The names of two of those who presented themselves were not on the lists. One other was a Democrat and one man appeared but declined to make public his vote.

Many of the Farrington supporters, it was claimed, decided not to respond to the summons to attend the hearing.

KILLS HIMSELF AS WIFE ASKS DIVORCE

Plymouth Man, in West for His Health, Despondent Over Suit Filing

Shortly after his wife filed suit for divorce, asking custody of their children, Harold S. Morey of Plymouth, for several years a resident of South Boston, committed suicide at Bozeman, Montana.

Morey, who was born in Plymouth, thirty-two years ago, went to Montana for his health a few years ago and there married a Bozeman girl. He recovered and entered the Postal service. His mother, Mrs. Martha Morey, a widow, accompanied him and remarried there.

Morey was well known in Plymouth but has only one remaining relative in this section, an uncle, William Morey of Brockton. He had been despondent for some time.

HEAD OF ARMY NURSES PRESENTS MAYOR A BOOK

Mrs. Fannie T. Hasen, 54 years old, of No. 51 Oxford street, Cambridge, visited Mayor Curley's office today and presented him a book.

Mrs. Hasen is one of the oldest Civil War nurses in the State, and is president of the Massachusetts Army Nurses' Association.

The book was a history and record of the Civil War nurses, which she thought might be of use to him during the convention of the G. A. R. next week. The mayor in return presented her with a gold official key of the city.

SUICIDE'S BODY HAD BEEN HANGING A WEEK

Braintree, Aug. 7.—The body of an unidentified man was found hanging from a tree in the woods near Sunnyside Park.

The body was that of a man about forty-eight hours old. It evidently had been dead a week. It was clothed in a brown coat and brown trousers, but no vest. There was a straw hat bearing the name "Phil Hat Company, 415 Fifth avenue, Brooklyn, N. Y." The man wore blue stockings and black laced shoes. In the pockets of the man's clothing were found $5 in bills and 51 cents.

1 DEAD, 15 HURT IN 5 AUTO ACCIDENTS

One boy is dead and fifteen other persons are suffering as a result of five automobile accidents in Greater Boston, at least two being due to drunken drivers.

Two women and a man miraculously escaped death in Somerville, and suffered only minor injuries.

They were Patrolman Allan S. Burns of the Somerville police department; his wife, Mrs. Josephine Burns, and Mrs. Virginia Kegler. The three were in a small coupe standing in front of No. 175 Broadway, Somerville, when a heavy limousine crashed into it.

Two Somerville policemen who had been talking to Burns arrested the driver of the limousine, who was helplessly drunk, they charged.

He was identified as Darwin Miller of Everett place, Arlington. He was charged with intoxication, operating a machine while under the influence of liquor and operating so as to endanger the lives of others.

SOUTH BOSTON BOY KILLED.

He pleaded not guilty when arraigned in Somerville court and was held in $700.

Lucico Mango, eight, of Beckler avenue, South Boston, died at the Carney Hospital of injuries received when he was knocked down by a machine operated by Joseph Donahue of Savin Hill avenue.

Three women are in the Carney Hospital as the result of a collision between two cars at Broadway and B street, South Boston. They are Mrs. Ellen Lynch of No. 627 East Third street, South Boston, and her daughter Catherine, and Mrs. Margaret Mahan of No. 208 West Fourth street.

Mrs. Lynch sustained a possible fracture of the skull, her daughter several fractured ribs and an injured leg, and Mrs. Mahan injuries to the face.

George M. Burke, son of Francis Burke of No. 110 I street, South Boston, driver of one of the cars, was arrested on the charge of driving while intoxicated.

SIX HURT IN HOLLISTON.

Six men were injured, one of them seriously, when the sedan in which they were riding overturned and took fire after a collision at Washington and Highland streets, Holliston.

Frank Tertaritto of Milford, suffering from a fractured jaw and possible internal injuries, is at the Milford Hospital in a dangerous condition. Louis Andicotti, also of Milford, sustained a fractured leg and was also taken to the hospital. The other men, all residents of Milford, were only slightly injured.

Two young men in a stolen automobile were painfully hurt when the machine overturned near Commonwealth Pier on the Summer street viaduct. They escaped before the police arrived. The car was the property of William J. Staley of No. 7 Harold street, Medford.

AUTO TRUCK KILLS CAMBRIDGE MAN

Hurrying to catch an electric car, John Markiney, twenty-eight years old, of Putnam avenue, Cambridge, was struck and killed by an automobile truck on Quincy avenue, Braintree, Markiney was found to be suffering from skull fracture and a broken back, died soon after arrival at Quincy Hospital. The truck is owned by a Boston concern.

OLD BOSTON JOURNAL BUILDING TO BE SOLD

Agreements have been signed for the sale to Max Bloom of the old Boston Journal building at No. 383-388 Washington street, corner of Water street.

Title will be given by Joseph C. Allen, banking commissioner, as liquidating agent, who obtained the property from Henry H. Chmielinski, former president of the Hanover Trust Company.

The structure is an 11-story brick and stone building and is assessed for $700,000, which includes $531,700 on the 3,793 feet of land. It was the former home of the Hanover Trust Company.

Saxophone Under Arm, Youth Seized As House Looter

Allen Cogswell, 20, a well-dressed youth said to be wanted in several places in Greater Boston for housebreaking, was arrested in the South End.

Cogswell was standing near a pawnshop with a saxophone under the arm. The police say he had pawned a number of stolen articles.

They charge he is wanted for robberies in the Roxbury Y. M. C. A. and from houses on Columbus avenue, in Newton and No. 105 Barton street, Somerville, his present address.

According to the police the young man obtained rooms in lodging houses and then ransacked them.

MORE PROTESTS USELESS, COX TELLS FLYNN

ernor Stands by His De- sion on Arrest of Officials

Further communications from Governor William S. Flynn of Rhode Island to Governor Channing Cox of this State concerning the controversy over the arrest of two Assistant Attorney-Generals of Rhode Island by members of the State constabulary will be unavailing, declared Governor Cox today.

The Governor stated that he would stand by his first report to Governor Flynn, which he made after a careful investigation into the matter. His report of that investigation governor criticised the Rhode Island officials for not making an their mission to this State connection with the bomb plot struge in the Rhode Island Senate.

MAUDE ADAMS PLANS RETURN TO STAGE

Offered Leading Role in Theatre Guild Production of "St. Joan"

New York, Aug. 7 (Universal)—Maude Adams, famous actress, who has not been seen on the stage since she played "Peter Pan" ten years ago, is negotiating with B. C. Whitney, the producer, for a return to the footlights.

Miss Adams returned to the United States from London last Monday and, it is said, received an offer from Mr. Whitney to play the leading role in the Theatre Guild production of George Bernard Shaw's "St. Joan," recently taken over by the Whitney interests.

Maude Adams is fifty-two years old and for the last decade has been living almost incognito under her own name, Maude Kiskadden.

Bonus Bureau Aids Vets to Solve Their Problems

There isn't a reason in the world why veterans of the World War should be unable to make out their adjusted compensation application.

The questions that trouble are easily answered by the American-Advertiser's Soldiers' Friend Bureau at this office.

It isn't even necessary for the busy soldier to make a personal visit, although veteran visitors are always welcome.

Just pen a few lines, drop them into the nearest mail box, and Uncle Sam will see that they are delivered to the staff of experts at the Soldiers' Friend Bureau conducted by the American and Advertiser.

A letter will save any waiting and will result in obtaining just as complete advice as would a visit.

Here are a few of the letters and answers:

E. C. L., NORTHFIELD, VT.

Q.—When I entered December 9, 1917, I was thirty-four years of age and went overseas April 8, 1918, receiving an honorable discharge June 9, 1919. About how much will my insurance amount to?

A.—As you did not state the day when you returned from overseas, we cannot correctly compute your service credits. However, credit is allowed of $1 a day for each day of service, after deducting the first sixty days, plus $1.25 a day for each day of overseas service. This credit multiplied by 20 will give you the approximate face value of the 20-year-paid-up insurance certificate which you will receive after you have filed an application.

E. C. Newport, Vt.

Q.—Is an American who served in the Canadian army during the World War entitled to the bonus?

A.—No. Veterans of the World War who served in the soldiers or naval forces of the U. S. are only eligible.

L. E. W., Charlestown.

Q.—During the war I served in the navy and received an ordinary discharge. Later I re-enlisted and received a dishonorable discharge. Am I entitled to the bonus?

A.—Whether the fact that, at the end of your second enlistment after the World War, you received a dishonorable discharge will bar you from receiving the bonus is a question which will be passed upon by the authorities in Washington after you have filed an application. The bonus law provides that veterans who served during the World War are entitled to its benefits if they were discharged under honorable conditions. You should fill out an application immediately and send it to Washington.

V. E. B., Pittsfield, Mass.

Q.—I enlisted in the American army April 21, 1918, went overseas for two years and 9 months with the American Expeditionary Forces and then served with the Army of occupation. Am I entitled to the bonus?

A.—No. The benefits of the bonus law are extended only to veterans of the World War who were members of the army or navy after April 5, 1917 and before February 12, 1919. Your service was after this period.

J. A. K., Fall River.

Q.—I served in the army from April 26, 1918, to May 23, 1919, with overseas service from July 4, 1918, to May 19, 1919. What will be the amount of my service credit?

A.—The amount of your service credit is $1 a day, which will be turned into a 20-year paid-up insurance certificate will have a face value of about $1,100.

MRS. S. B. C., Derry, N. H.

Q.—I am the widow of a World War veteran who enlisted May 4, 1917, left for overseas April 22, 1918, died February 15, 1919. Am I entitled to the bonus?

A.—Your husband would be entitled to an adjusted service credit of about $540, which when turned into a 20-year paid-up policy will have a face value of about $1,350. It will be absolutely necessary for you or husband to fill out a bonus application before he can receive any benefits. If he will call at our bonus bureau, he will receive the necessary assistance in filling out such an application properly.

C. M. K., Fitchburg.

Q.—Please tell me whether my credit will be counted from the time of my enlistment to the date of my discharge in service in the Atlantic Fleet counted as an overseas service?

A.—The adjusted service credit is computed from the date a veteran is called into active service to the date of his release or discharge from such active service. All service afloat, but not on receiving ships, is regarded as overseas service.

F. V., BOSTON.

Q.—I enlisted August 7, 1918, and was honorably discharged January 31, 1919, with service in the United States exclusively. Am I entitled to the bonus, and if so, how much?

A.—Under the new bonus law you will receive a twenty-year paid-up insurance policy with the approximate face value of $126.

S. A. B., MILTON, VT.

Q.—During the World War I had two years of service in Alaska with the United States Army. If this counted as overseas service?

A.—Under the bonus law, service in Alaska is not overseas service and for such service you will be entitled to a credit of $1 per day, after the first 60 days.

TELLS HOW SHE WON N. E. WEEK SLOGAN PRIZE

Mrs. Shields Will Spend $100 Bonus for Local Products

"We will spend the 100 prize money for New England-made products," said Mrs. George H. Shields, of No. 37 Gorham avenue, Brookline, in explaining how she won the New England Week slogan contest.

Although Mrs. Shields' brother, Alden H. Johnson of No. 19 Moreton road, Boston, sent the slogan in to the committee, she originated it and he gives her full credit.

The slogan is "Prosperity Begins at Home—Buy Products Made in New England's Zone."

This slogan, however, as well as all the 4,000 submitted, were not considered broad enough for the New England week movement, so the committee originated one of its own which will be the official slogan. It is, "To Know New England Products Is to Want New England Products."

HOW SHE WON IT.

Here is Mrs. Shields' story of how she won the prize:

"My brothers, Alden and Major S. E. Johnson, were at my home. We talked about the slogan contest and decided to enter it. We wrote about 100 slogans, one of which was the one I wrote that won. My brother, Alden, sent it in, after we had gone over the entire 100 and eliminated all the others.

"At the time I wrote it I didn't dream it would win the prize, for I knew there would be thousands submitted. It is the first time I ever entered a contest of any kind. It is our intention to use the money in purchasing New England made products."

Mrs. Shields is the wife of a Boston lawyer and mother of a pretty three-year-old child. She was preparing to take the baby to a New England beach—Duxbury—when the reporter talked with her about her victory.

Alden H. Johnson, a pharmacist, to whom a check for $100 was sent by the slogan committee said, "We filled fully a dozen pages of paper with slogans but boiled them down to the winner. Most of the work was done by my sister who not only wrote the winning phrase but whose arguments prevailed when it came to picking it as the one we should send in.

"New England homes will be prosperous if the people of New England will heed the New England Week movement. As an example of what I mean—suppose a physician, who is a non-producer, insists on local-made products. The money he pays for it will return to him through an employe of the local factory in which the article the physician bought was manufactured. In such a case the physician is merely helping to support those who support him."

The judges in the contest were L. F. Hamilton, sales promotion manager of Walworth Manufacturing Company, chairman; J. Wickes, advertising manager, Mellin's Food Company and vice-president Association of National Advertisers; Henry Kuhns, former president Advertising Club of Boston and S. G. Barclay, field secretary Association of National Advertisers.

BETTER AIR BRAKES DEMANDED BY I. C. C.

Washington, Aug. 7.—Improvements in the operation and maintenance of airbrakes for passenger and freight cars are necessary, the Interstate Commerce Commission ruled today. It was specified that the enginemen should have better control over service and emergency application of the brakes, and that a power brake system should provide means whereby the enginemen might apply the brakes in emergency.

70 Y. M. C. A. MEMBERS RECEIVED IN BERLIN

Berlin, Aug. 7.—A group of seventy Americans headed by Sherwood Eddy, of the International Young Men's Christian Association, is visiting various educational institutions here and conferring with agricultural experts and government officials. The group was received by Under Secretary of State Von Maltzan in the absence of Foreign Minister Stresemann.

Francis Cummings' Milk Proved a Real Treat Mr. Howard J. Bushway And a Few Happy Youngsters

The Big Favorites at the BOSTON AMERICAN Nantasket Excursion—and CUMMINGS' MILK and BUSHWAY'S ICE CREAM

128,000 bottles of Cummings' Milk—

That's how many Bottles of Pasteurized Milk was served to the mothers and their children at the Four Boston American mothers' and children's outings at Nantasket. These children have had the purest and most nutritious milk that New England affords. Taken from tuberculin-tested Guernsey cows, pasteurized for 30 minutes at 145 degrees and shipped in cool, clean bottles into the city. Cummings' Milk surpasses ordinary milk in food value, quality and flavor. Your family needs this Safe, Pure, Nutritious Milk.

When you eat ice cream, do you stop to think whether or not it is made by an old established firm?

Did you know that Bushway's have been in business since 1882? Over 6,000 gallons every day (30 truck loads) of our ice cream are delivered in New England. It is made of perfectly fresh pasteurized milk and cream, granulated sugar and the finest fruits. Do for yourself what was done for these 15,000 children—demand the best at drugstore and soda fountain. Our trademark is your safeguard.

SAFETY DRIVE MEETS WIDE APPROVAL

American's Campaign Already Is Bearing Fruit; Autoists Strong for It

By BERT FORD.

Another telephone call for the I PLAY SAFE CLUB Editor. This time from William G. White of No. 181 Massachusetts avenue, who sounded one more note in the swelling chorus of approval of the Boston American's educational campaign to reduce motor vehicle casualties.

"Simply wanted to say that my emblem arrived and that I feel I'm a better driver since I put it on the windshield of my car," said Mr. White. "It reminds me of my responsibility every time I glance at it. I feel that folks hire their eyes on me and that more is expected of me as a signer of the club pledge."

REMINDERS OF DUTY.

If Mr. White had talked all day he couldn't have said more. He struck the nail squarely on the head and drove it home. In his snappy, off-hand remarks he explained how he had become inoculated by the very germ of individual caution and responsibility that the I PLAY SAFE CLUB seeks to make epidemic throughout New England.

The I PLAY SAFE emblems are little beacon lights of good will and good intentions. They are little reminders of your duty to yourself, to those in your car and to the other fellow on the road.

They are meant to apply the mental brakes on club members when in moments of absent-mindedness or hurry they might otherwise forget the principles of the pledge they signed on becoming enrolled.

In troubling to telephone his little sermon, Mr. White exhibited a public spirit and enthusiasm that might well be emulated by the thousands of club members who have vowed to do their bit to conserve life and to make the highways of New England safer and pleasanter.

The Boston American's I PLAY SAFE CLUB struck such a humane, popular note that it met with instant success. Thousands of applications are received daily. It is impossible to publish the names of members as rapidly as they come in. They will be printed in installments subject to news conditions. Today's Honor Roll:

'Play Safe' Emblem Urged by Mayor for City Cars

To Heads of Departments:

Heads of departments are requested to direct the chauffeurs of municipal motor vehicles employed by them to place the I PLAY SAFE emblem of the 1924 Drivers' Club, provided by the Boston American, on the windshields of their vehicles, in order that the city of Boston may do its share in encouraging a greater regard for the safety of the streets and roads and make the motor traffic of the city and State freer from accident and danger. City chauffeurs should be encouraged to identify themselves with this club, which is a movement for the development of greater vigilance and care in street traffic.

JAMES M. CURLEY, Mayor.

SANDE, KING OF AMERICAN JOCKEYS, MAY NEVER RIDE AGAIN

MAY LOSE LEG AFTER BAD SPILL

Saratoga Springs, N. Y., Aug. 7 Earl Sande world's most famous jockey, will never ride again, it was said tonight by physicians at the Saratoga Hospital where Sande was taken after a spill in the first race yesterday afternoon when three horses ran over him. "Sande's chances of doing said Dr D O Meredith "He suffered a bad ankle fracture of the right leg, possible fracture of left ankle

Earle Sande

Master [illegible] the [illegible] and [illegible] one for the accident was suspended [illegible] Sande was [illegible] today.

Among the first to reach Sande's side when he was carried into the Jockey Club was Mrs Sande [illegible] brids of less than a year. Mr George D. Widener, whose mare [illegible] Earle rode to such a brilliant victory here Monday, and Mrs Harry Sinclair, wife of the oil magnate and owner of the Rancocas stable that has Sande under contract.

WORRIED OVER OTHER BOYS.

One of the first things that Sande asked from Mrs. Vanderbilt when he returned to complete consciousness in his little room in the hospital was "How are the other boys that went down?"

"Fine," replied Mrs. Vanderbilt. "They are all right. None of them badly hurt."

"That's good," replied Sande in a low voice. "None of them can afford to be seriously hurt. I have a bit of money saved up. I guess I can." And again he lapsed into unconsciousness.

Sande had figured within a few days that it was his last season on the turf.

HOPED TO RETIRE SOON.

Sande for a long time has found it impossible to keep down his weight without starving himself and undermining his health.

"I'm about ready to give up fight ing," he remarked. "In spite of everything I do to reduce, my weight will keep so high that I get too few mounts to make it worth while. It isn't worth living on beef tea three times a day. I've established [illegible] abroad, where the opportunities for heavyweight jockeys are better. I have no definite plans yet. My contract with the Rancocas stable is not effected first.

That a youth of Sande's height should be able to ride at 115 pounds and even lighter is necessary is a thing [illegible] remarkable and called for an amount of self sacrifice and punishment that is not appreciated save by those who are familiar with the demands of the exercise.

Boston Girl's Impassioned Love Story and Her Struggle to Live It Down and Come Back

Chickie felt weak and almost unable to breathe

EVA wondered at this. She asked very adroitly. Learning of the truth she plumped her hands on her hips: "My word! What would you do if you were your own girl friends. I suppose you'd go into mourning."

Chickie Felt Weak

Chickie felt weak and almost unable to breathe. "I suppose she has some money saved—"

"Oh, she's not so! Alleging ladies gowns is very profitable to the apprentice—"

"If she hasn't, what is she to do?"

"Sad life isn't it?"

"You don't suppose they'll allow her to leave the hospital, not knowing what is to become of her?"

"When they leave—they leave! We haven't any follow-up squad. What do you think this is? A prison?"

Chickie said hoarsely: "It's not right—we can't stand by and do nothing."

Eva stood on the steps: "That's just what we can do. And nothing else. There are two or three a month like Elena. Can't help them all, can you? What good does it do to help one?"

Chickie was as weighted with this forbidding fate awaiting Elena Castenada as though it were her own. She saw the pathetic beautiful youthfulness of the girl's face, the childish pride when she said, "You can kiss him!"

It seemed to her frightful that she and Eva would stand with folded hands and allow Elena to go out into this brutal aloneness. It seemed to her that she was a hundred years older in poise and confidence.

Bitter Enough

And it was bitter enough for her. She went along the street, stumbling blindly her lips. That night she didn't sleep. Her thoughts filled with quixotic schemes for aiding

So good, so cool
—this new breakfast is chilled!

Here's the recipe. All you need is Quick Quaker—try it.

WANT a change in breakfast? A dish so unusual, so delightful on a summer's day that no other before has compared? Here is the latest delight in thousands of homes—it's worth while trying.

As you prepare dinner tonight, cook your regular breakfast quantity of QUICK QUAKER (the new Quaker Oats that cooks in 3 to 5 minutes).

When done, pour into a pudding mould and let cool. Then place in the refrigerator over night. Cut in medium thick slices and serve at breakfast with fresh or cooked fruits or berries and sugar—float with rich milk or cream.

The combination is delightful. A world noted chef discovered this new way. Now millions enjoy it every day. Just for the joy of it, try it yourself.

Standard full size and weight packages—Medium: 1¼ pounds; Large: 3 pounds, 7 oz.

3 MINUTE JOURNEYS

By Temple Manning

ABOUT sixty-four miles out of London, we ask you to follow the quaint old Bath coachroad, you would arrive at the village of Hungerford, in pastoral Berkshire.

Hungerford is well off main-traveled tourist routes. But it holds more than passing interest for the traveler who likes to linger long in quaint byways of this world, studying customs of olden days where they are still observed in all their simple innocuousness.

Such a traveler would delight in the Hungerford observance of Hock Day. This holiday occurs on Tuesday, the sixteenth day after Easter. The celebration actually begins with a mammoth supper and punch bowl at the old John of Gaunt Inn, on the Friday before Hock Tuesday.

By 9 o'clock in the morning, on Hock Tuesday, the Hungerford jury have assembled in the Town Hall. The first business to come up at this, their annual meeting, is the appointing of two tithing-men to collect a poll tax of two pence from each burgess of the borough and a kiss from each wife and daughter.

This solemn ceremony is a recognition of the ancient power of the lord of the manor, who, if he chose, it seems, had the right to collect such kisses personally.

When they start on their Hock Day duties, the two tithing-men carry short poles gaily bedecked with blue ribbons and flowers. Back of them walks a man who is literally weighted down with oranges. Every kissed person must be presented with an orange, and the school and workhouse children also come in for their share.

The progress of the tithing-man and the orange-man is triumphant. Wherever they go they are greeted by cheers.

One by one the village homes are entered and the letter and spirit of the law are observed. Nor is the kissing confined to the young and pretty, for the old ladies of Hungerford would feel sadly neglected were the tithing-men to pass them by.

Would Give Stroller

Helping Hand Editor:

I have some clothes for a girl about five years and a dress for a girl about 10, also a lady's sweater. I also have a stroller and shoo-fly and a number of books for a small child, a doll carriage, paper dolls and a couple of other dolls.

MRS. E. F.,
Holyoke.

Thank you. We are sending you the address of Mrs. S. H. who has six small children, two of whom are the ages you mention. We have many appeals for strollers, but there does not seem to be one from Holyoke. We will therefore keep your offer on file together with the other things you mention.

Mother in Bad Health

Helping Hand Editor:

I am a mother of five children. They range from six months up to nine. They are very badly in need of clothes. I was in the hospital and had twins and I am not in the best of health. My husband cannot make much money. I would like if any kind lady would send me a carriage or any kind of clothing. I could make over anything for the children. I hope some day I will be able to pay it back.

MRS. E. R. 1.

Sick Baby Needs Carriage

Helping Hand Editor:

I wonder if there is any of your readers who will give me a baby carriage. I have 5 children and my husband has been ill for four years with tuberculosis and I can't afford to buy one. The baby is very frail only seven pounds in weight and 6 weeks old.

MRS. T. D.,
Dedham.

Patent Leather Pumps

Helping Hand Editor:

I have a good pair of patent leather pumps, size 3, which my girl just can't wear. I will send them parcel post if anyone wishes them.

Thank you. We are sending you the address of Mrs. B. P., mother of five children, who was deserted by her husband seven years ago, and is in ill health.

Gives Sneakers

Helping Hand Editor:

Please send me the address of a 12 or 13-year-old boy that can use a pair of sneakers, size 6½, that I have outgrown.

BEREL A.

Thank you Berel. We are sending you the address of Mrs. H. R., who has four boys and the sneakers will fit one of them.

HOW TO KEEP WELL

By Dr. F. X. Mahoney
Boston Health Commissioner

Dr. Mahoney

ARE you washing down a heavy dinner at night with iced cold liquids?

You might as well throw cold water on a fire and expect it to continue to burn evenly and steadily.

You are trying to upset your digestive processes and making it easy for midnight attacks of indigestion and morning-after inefficiency.

At any time iced drinks are harmful and with a heavy meal they are especially so. Water with your meals is entirely safe and healthful—cool water, or other liquids, drunk after the food is chewed and swallowed.

Don't expect, either, to place food in your mouth, take a swallow of liquid and wash it down together—and not get indigestion sometime or other. The juices in the mouth are alkaline and they are there to mix with the food and render it ready for the stomach.

Chewing of the food stimulates the excretion of these juices in the mouth. When you follow a mouthful of food with a swallow of water, you are not calling these necessary juices into action and food passes along without this alkaline leavening.

During the day, when the heat makes you dry and crave a cooling drink, try the office water-cooler instead of the soda fountain. The cool water in the tank will actually make you more comfortable than the iced drinks at a fountain.

Did you ever watch a crowd, by the way, at a soda fountain on a hot day? Cold ice cream sodas, chilled egg drinks, milk shakes and frothy, syrupy drinks are the rule.

A few minutes later, the drinkers pass into the hot street and the drinks begin to work. The sugar and milk and eggs that form the bulk of the drinks start to produce heat, just as if the parched customer had ordered a roast beef sandwich or pastry. The effect is the same.

In the way of a safe cool drink for the children during the hot months, lemonade, made with cool water, is far better than "tonics" and soda water.

QUESTIONS ANSWERED

I suffer every Summer from hay fever. Can you tell me of something that will help me?

H. A. F., Wakefield.

This affection is due to abnormal sensitivity of the tissues of the nasal fever to certain substances. Extensive experiments with certain serums capable of producing a sensitiveness to that protein, or to a better or small exposure to the substances to which you find that you are "sensitive," or to the so called vaccine treatments. It will be easy for you by skin tests what substances are causing your suffering and by chance of residence or protective treatment you will probably find relief.

My baby vomits a lot and is gonshy fussy and I cannot seem to find the cause. Can you help me?

MRS. E. W.

It seems to me that the trouble lies with the baby's food. I would advise you to consult your family physician immediately, as the baby will not gain if there is anything wrong with its diet. The first step toward a cure is to stop all food and give only boiled water by mouth. If the bowels are not moving freely, an enema may be given.

MEDBURY SAYS—

By John P. Medbury

THOUSANDS of tourists all over the United States are furnishing their homes by stopping at different hotels and taking the linen with them when they leave.

ONE guy used to stop at a hotel and sit up all night just so that he could take some clean sheets and pillow cases with him when he left in the morning.

WHEN he got home his wife bawled him out because he forgot to bring the blankets.

THE only reason he left the bad was because he couldn't get it in his suit case.

ONE guy who travels quite a bit never keeps a diary. He looks over his towels to find out where he's been.

HIS name is Smith but he's got Pullman embroidered on all his napkins.

HE tells his guests that that was his wife's maiden name.

GIRL SWIMMERS FOR AMERICAN CARNIVAL

Noted girl swimmers from all parts of New England will compete in the six events at the annual water carnival of the Boston American in Charles River Basin, Saturday afternoon, August 16. Entries are arriving in every mail. Among the early entries were those of Ione Muir and Mabel Mangler of Boston, bot hof whom are expert swimmers.

Present indications are that the largest number of lovely mermaids (the kind that DO go near the water) ever assembled for a swimming carnival in New England, will participate in the American's affair.

One of those numerous lake or sea queens will be adjudged the best swimmer in the United States. Through special arrangement with the A. A. U., the American has arranged for a national half-mile championship for girls as a feature event.

The winner of this event will be declared the United States half-mile champion. Swimmers from all parts of the country are expected to enter.

The girls who finish first, second and third will be presented medals emblematic of the championship of the United States, while the next twelve will also receive suitable prizes.

CAPTAIN PHELPS IS GIVEN MAJORITY IN RESERVES

Captain Walter M. Phelps, athletic officer in the First Corps Area, with headquarters at Army Base, South Boston, has been advanced to the rank of major in the organized reserves.

Maj. W. M. Phelps

The captain is a well-known champion of athletics for the army, which he has served for twenty-one years.

He served three years, respectively, in the following units: Fifth Infantry; Troop D, cavalry; Company I, 81st Infantry; 36th Company, C. A. C., and over two years in Company I, 1st infantry.

He has held important positions in the Philippines, China, Cuba, Hawaii and the United States.

NEW FLOOD OF APPLICANTS AS GUARDS

The photographs of the first Boston American volunteer lifeguards to get into their suits has caused a new flood of applications for membership in the corps.

The suits, furnished to the first fifty members by the Horace Partridge Company, are nifty looking and have made a big hit.

To new volunteers, the Boston American's message is that the corps is not limited in size, but for the convenience of the Red Cross instructors, applicants must take the instruction and tests at the places scheduled.

These places are Freeport street, Dorchester, and Revere Beach, afternoons this week, and Strandway Beach, South Boston, forenoons next week. At Forest River Park pool, Salem, instruction will be given Monday, Wednesday and Friday evenings throughout August, and other Boston American Red Cross corps instructors can be found at Magazine Beach, Cambridge, and Winthrop Beach.

In addition to Captain Wallace of the Red Cross, the following are listed as expert instructors in the Boston American corps:

Harold E. Barr, Winthrop Beach; Frank Vigneau of the Red Cross; Edward H. Mulvey, Carson Beach, South Boston; Robert Muir, Y. M. C. A. instructor; Dana Gray, Dedham and Winthrop Beach; Gaylord W. Gedney, Boys' Club of Boston and Forest River Park, Salem; Arthur B. Parkson, Boston University; Alfred B. Thompson, Magazine Beach, Cambridge; Cavan Dunn, Sacred Heart boys' camp, Scituate; Olive Holland, Wollaston, and Pauline Klein.

SOUTH END MAN SEARCHING FOR HIS LOST WIFE

Wilbur O. Worden of No. 147 Appleton street, South End, has asked the Boston American to assist him in locating his wife, Alma, who left home last May.

Worden says he is on the verge of a nervous breakdown over his wife's absence, and if she will return to him everything will be forgiven.

The woman is 33 years old, 5 feet 4 inches tall, with blonde bobbed hair, shingled, and blue eyes. When she left she was wearing a black dress with green around both arms and in the centre.

Mrs. Wilbur O. Worden.

17 UNLICENSED DRIVERS ARRESTED IN CAMBRIDGE

Seventeen persons were arrested by Cambridge police, charged with operating automobiles without licenses. They were discovered by Frank L. Murray of Registrar Goodwin's office, who stopped several hundred cars on Massachusetts avenue. Twenty other drivers had their licenses suspended for operating with improper tail lights and several hundred motorists were cautioned for not having their headlights properly focused.

ANNUAL OUTING OF CUMMINGS MILK COMPANY

Despite the intense heat, employees of the Francis S. Cummings Milk Company enjoyed their annual outing at Thompson's Grove, Silver Lake, Wilmington.

Early in the day the employees of both Somerville and Dorchester branches entered automobiles and sped over the road to Wilmington, where a program of sports and entertainment had been laid out.

The chief feature of the athletic program was a baseball game between the Dorchester and Somerville branches, which took place in the afternoon.

Another event, which furnished entertainment for participants and spectators alike, was a potato race, in which a number of girls took part.

They included Kitty Hurley, May Crowley, Mrs. Buckles, Emma Horeford, Alice Nelson, Irene Riordon, Alice Hoagley, Jane Foster and Mrs. Cahill.

There were other games and sports, together with an appetizing repast, and many of the employees took advantage of the nearness of the lake to bathe.

Loeb-Leopold trial that they had come forth to see. My father used to use that expression, 'for to see,' and I often corrected him for his mistake. Why do you make the same mistake?"

THAT'S A READER'S question. His father was not the first to use "for to see." The 11th Chapter of St. Matthew says, "But what went ye out for to see? A man clothed in soft raiment? Behold, they that wear soft clothing are in kings' houses."

THE GENTLEMAN is also referred to Kipling's "For to admire and for to see, for to travel this world so wide." It never did no good to me, but I can't stop it if I tried."

MUSSOLINI shows that he has power to control the party that he created and that now rules Italy. And that is his greatest demonstration of individual strength thus far. It is easy enough to seize power, but hard to rule and control the machine by which you rise.

FINANCE

By B. C. Forbes

Is it a wise rule never to buy new issues of certificates? Or can new issues often be purchased on more attractive terms than seasoned issues?

* * *

The newness or oldness of a security is not the point most to be considered. A good new security is far better than an indifferently good old security. It is the security itself that counts, not its age.

* * *

Many of the keenest buyers of securities, as a matter of fact, give special attention to new issues. They find more bargains among new offerings than among well-known and well-seasoned issues. This is quite understandable, seeing that in order to attract buyers, it usually is necessary to fix the price below the level which similar securities have reached after becoming widely known and quoted. New issues, therefore, often have to be sold, whereas old issues have already been sold.

In these days when new offerings are coming along rapidly, this subject is worthy of consideration.

The records show that since January 1 investors have been called upon to absorb no less than $1,045,000,000 new bonds, $165,000,000 new notes, and $500,000,000 new stock. Of this total, $1,500,000,000 represented new capital, only about $200,000,000 representing refunding.

One bond authority, who does his own thinking, Franklin Escher, furnishes the following sensible analysis of the subject:

"A good many people pride themselves on never even considering the purchase of a newly issued security. Ask one of these people why he feels as he does, and almost invariably he will tell you that he wants nothing that isn't seasoned. The chances are that new issues cost money to bring out, he will tell you, and that that cost has got to be added to the market price and absorbed by the investor. Don't these new things always sell off eventually by the amount of the underwriter's commission?' he will say—and then, more than likely, point out one or more specific instances where just that happened.

"Now, it is perfectly true that too often has the investor bought a new bond from a second-rate house only to see it sell off several points as soon as the distribution was accomplished. Even first-grade houses occasionally have that disagreeable experience with their issues during a period of falling bond prices.

"But to assert that such a thing is a rule, particularly where the house and the issue are first grade, is simply to confess complete ignorance of bond market facts and figures. To the mind of any bond man who knows his business, there comes to mind the names of any number of new bonds put out during the last three years that seem to admit for one moment sold below their issue price, and are at present quoted anywhere from five to fifteen points higher.

"Good will in investment banking, as in any other business, is a firm's most valuable asset. Let an issue get around among a firm's customers that its new offerings are likely to sell below rather than above the original price of issue, and the ability of that firm to do business soon enough comes to an end.

"Where then, and by whom is the extra considerable cost of selling a new issue of bonds absorbed? Who, in other words, pays the freight?

"The borrower, in this case, just like the borrower in every other case. In other words, the corporation that puts out the new bonds—to take up the selling expenses and the underwriter's profit.

"Where a new issue is being offered the price has to be public is not to be below rather than above the price warranted by open market conditions. When you go to get goods to sell, you've got to price them right.

"Again, when a first-class house sells its clients a new bond, it puts itself squarely behind that bond.

"Also—and this is a very important thing—the man who buys bonds afforded by a first-class house can feel that the banker not only continues to stand behind the bonds after he has sold them, but will also consider it his duty to keep his clients informed as to any developments affecting the value of their investment. To the buyer of such a bond, in other words, there is at all times available an unfailing source of information, or real information, at the hand that the banker himself demands (and gets) previous to his purchase of the issue."

You will thus see that the investor who buys bonds even now open does not neglect announcements of new issues of either bonds or stocks any more than the alert manufacturer of clothing would dream of sticking severely to old patterns and scorning to examine new styles.

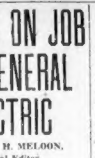
YOUNG ON JOB FOR GENERAL ELECTRIC

By FRANK H. MELOON,
Financial Editor.

Commenting upon the great strength of specialties which has tended to put a frame around the general market picture, attention is naturally drawn to General Electric, regarding which, one very familiar with its affairs points out:



Owen D. Young

"If General Electric had in its treasury as of December 31 last, $77,000,000 of securities of companies it had made equipment for and others which are now worth a greatly enlarged sum, and if the company stands to recover properties in Germany, etc., that had been written off in the war, why should not the stock appreciate substantially with the settlement of reparations in Europe, particularly with Owen D. Young on the job abroad."

It may be not generally known that Mr. Young is of Boston connection. He studied law at night at Boston University, finishing his legal education at the age of twenty-two, he began his career with Charles H. Tyler of Boston, subsequently he became a member of the firm and gained increasing recognition as a lawyer.

While continuing to practice his profession, Mr. Young became interested in electricity. Charles Coffin, "Father" of the General Electric Company, was so impressed by him that he invited Mr. Young to join the company as head of its legal department. He accepted and his rise has been rapid. He became vice-president and finally chairman of the board of directors on the retirement of Mr. Coffin.

Mr. Young is said to have a keen, brilliant mind, with a comprehensive grasp of business problems and the ability to work with men. He is said to have been one of the leaders in the negotiations which led to the consolidation in the Radio Corporation of America of the various divergent interests now harmonized withal it. Mr. Young, Marshall Field, III, William Wrigley, Jr., of Chicago and Franklin D. Roosevelt a while ago announced their intention of starting a New York-Chicago hillum airship line.

Slight improvement in the automobile business in the past thirty days will be reflected in increase in July output figures, estimated at 7 per cent. to 8 per cent. over June, or between 260,000 and 265,000 vehicles, against 248,799 in June.

Some dealers maintain schedules at the low of the year while others have shown increased output. Although July output is only about 70 per cent. of July, 1923, it should exceed July, 1922, which was 247,-000. Upward turn in production at this time is considered significant, as in the two preceding years July output was considerably below the June total, reflecting midsummer dulness.

Manufacturers expect improved automobile buying to continue for at least sixty to ninety days, and higher schedules are being worked out in current month.

NEVADA CONSOLIDATED PROFITS ARE LOWERED

Nevada Consolidated for quarter ended June 30 shows profit after depreciation but before depletion of $250,921, equivalent to 18 cents a share on 1,359,047 shares. This compares with final net of $413,030 or 29 cents a share in first quarter this year and $963,026 or 48 cents in second quarter of 1923.

SHOE TRADE IS PICKING UP

New England shoe industry is picking up. At Brockton nearly all the larger plants are running near capacity on orders of men's and women's shoes for Fall delivery. Average number of employes for the past six months was 7,994 as against 12,108 last year.

Just now orders are coming in at an encouraging rate. Business written at the Boston shoe style show featured the activity of foot wear. This improvement also obtains at Lynn and Haverhill.

Lynn manufacturers are more optimistic than for years. By reason of the agreement recently reached between the manufacturers' association and the operatives, peace seems assured in that city for another year. Lynn plants are operating at roughly 80 per cent. capacity, with some of the larger units running full. Nearly all business is in so-called "fashion" or novelty shoes.

BANKERS' HOPES HIGH FOR LOAN TO GERMANY

Total subscriptions of more than $40,000,000 for the $25,000,000 Norwegian loans offered this week encouraged bankers in the belief that the coming German loan would meet with a hearty response. Distribution of orders indicated a wide public interest in the Norwegian issue contrasted with the public apathy shown when the Dutch and Swiss loans were floated earlier in the year.

MUNICIPAL BOND ISSUES IN JULY ARE FEWER

After reaching a record-breaking total for six months ended June 30, the volume of July, 1924, municipal Bond flotations fell off sharply in July, says the Daily Bond Buyer of New York. For the month just closed the bond market and there was a marked scarcity of issues of State obligations.

Liberty Bond Prices

Liberty bond prices fractions in 32ds) were 3½s, first issue, $102.10 bid; second 4s, 101.24 bid; first 4¼s, $102.12; second 4¼s $101.18; third 4½s, 102.16; fourth 4¼s $102.17; Treasury 4¼s, 105.19.

IRREGULARITY RULES IN N. Y. MARKET

Irregularity ruled on the New York Stock Exchange as specialist operators, who had been largely responsible for the rapid advance of the last eight weeks showed a disposition to restrict their operations and give the market a breathing spell.

Speculative interest was confined largely to specialties. National Lead extended its early gain to 4 points and General Electric duplicated its record high by moving up 8¾ points to 281.

Fleischman, United States Distributing Corporation, American Foreign Power certificates also touched new highs. Lackawanna and Norfolk & Western featured the rail group with gains of 2 points each.

Caramel Fruit sagged 2¾ to a new 1924 low, and S. S. Kresge and American Woolen sold 2 points below Wednesday's final quotations. Call money opened at 2 per cent.

Price changes were narrow in Boston Stock Exchange trading, but more often than up. United Fruit lifted nearly 2 points. Boston & Maine was off nearly a point. United Shoe tacked on a major fraction.

Nine French Bond Issues Are Sold at New 1924 Tops

Growing confidence that the Inter-Allied Conference would be successful in putting the Dawes plan into execution was reflected in soaring prices for French bonds, which virtually monopolized New York trading.

Nine French issues established new 1924 high records on advances ranging from about 1 to 3¼ points. New top figures were set by the French government 7½s at 104, and the 8s at 105½. Other issues which reached the year's highest levels were Seine 7s, up more than 3 points, and Paris-Lyons-Mediterranean, Bordeaux, Marseilles, Lyons, Solssons and American obligations.

BOSTON STOCK EXCHANGE NOMINATIONS ARE MADE

Boston Stock Exchange nominating committee reports the following names for officers, members of the governing committee and members of the nominating committee to be voted upon at the coming annual meeting of the Exchange, September 29, 1924: President, William S. Goodnow; vice-president, Jere A. Downs; treasurer, Sidney Chase.

Members of governing committee (terms expire 1926): William F. Batcholomew, James Dean, Hatherly Foster, Jr., Frank H. Georges, Jr., N. Proctor, Frank W. Remick, Nominating committee (1924-1925): Starr Wood Jr., Bradford Boardman, Fayette Fredric C. Haskins, William H. Seabury, William B. Stearns.

QUOTATIONS UPWARD IN WHEAT FUTURES

Chicago wheat market, influenced by an advance in quotations at Liverpool and by reports of progress at the Dominion harvest fields, showed an upward tendency. Black Rust reports from North Dakota and Manitoba counted also as a bullish factor. Large sales of wheat to go into store were something of an aid to later trading. Early prices, which ranged from 4c. to 1¾c. higher, September 127⅞ to 128⅜ and December 129⅝ to 130, was followed by slight further gains and then by a moderate setback.

QUOTATIONS EASY IN COTTON FUTURES

Quotations were easy in New York cotton futures. Prices: October, 27.60; December, 27.00; January, 26.90 March, 27.10; May, 27.28.

Schools and Colleges

Schools and colleges exist to help you. The more you know the more you can earn. Why not enter today the school in which you are most interested—learn to do something you like to do, and increase your earning power?

A few hours an evening, a few dollars a week, and after a few weeks or months you will be able to command a better position, demand a higher salary, because you will be worth more. You will be worth more, because you know more.

The schools advertised in the Boston American are well equipped to teach you to do something useful, something you enjoy doing. Or perhaps you have had some instruction, and want to perfect your knowledge of that subject. Greater proficiency in your chosen profession will make you happier, because it will help you to realize your ambitions. The road to success lies through school. Which school do you choose?

Father Fails to Jail His Daughter for Bobbing Hair

Chicago, Aug. 7 (Universal).—Hair-bobbing is not punishable with a jail sentence, Valentine Milano learned.

He sought to have his pretty sixteen-year-old daughter, Sophie, sent to jail to "set an example for his six other girls—that they must not have their hair bobbed."

The court ruled that hair-bobbing was not yet considered criminal and Milano declared his intention to take his "case" to a higher court.

Loeb-Leopold Case

Is Worries the London Mail

The London Daily Mail, gazing across the Atlantic Ocean and on nearly a thousand miles to Chicago, gets excited about the Loeb-Leopold murder case. "A great danger and shame," it says, "to allow an army of psychologists and alienists to take the case away from a jury."

The alienists have nothing to do with it. The lawyer for the young murderers pleaded guilty and that prevented a jury trial. And that plea, by the way, makes it impossible for the judge to declare the murderers insane. If the judge should consider insanity it would be necessary for him to empanel a jury.

Psychologists declare that young Loeb lied to the outside world and to himself so often and so long that he came to believe his own lies. That is possible, as many can testify. Baron Munchausen, in his old age, believed his own stories, probably.

The Loeb boy was obsessed with the idea that he was to be "the master mind of crime." Why such a thought, such perverted ambition should have seized a youth whose wealth made crime unnecessary and unprofitable is beyond understanding. A life spent at hard labor in prison ought to cure that "master criminal" ambition and atone in part for the murder.

"Vilest murderers in the world" they call those two young men that killed a helpless boy in Chicago. They are vile, but there are depths below their vileness.

Frank Dorsheimer of Gap, Pa., accuses his brothers of killing their father and mother, saying, "One of my brothers said, 'It hurt me to kill mother, but I didn't mind killing the old man.'"

There you have the lowest depth of crime, if such depths interest you.

It Pays to Improve Things

Take the "Honey Ball Melon," for Instance

If you can make two blades of grass grow where only one grew—that's GOOD. If you can make a much better melon grow where an inferior melon grew, that's BETTER.

Ask the gentlemen that have inaugurated "Honey Ball Week" in Fort Worth and Tarrant County, Texas.

Here is the story. Please notice the growth of a thing that is REALLY GOOD.

A tenant farmer of Tarrant County named Parker studied the Honey Dew melon and studied the Texas Cannon Ball cantaloupe. He said to himself, "I think a combination of those two would go."

He worked at the proposition for seven years, nursed it carefully, made it a success. He called his combination melon the "Honey Ball Melon," and it DID GO.

Last year Texas planted seventy acres of Honey Ball melons. That didn't supply the demand. Growers made from $200 to $640 an acre. Seeds were saved, and this year 2,200 ACRES were planted. Even that planting won't supply the demand.

Tarrant County next year will plant TEN THOUSAND ACRES OF HONEY BALL MELONS. Those ten thousand acres would have produced in profit perhaps one hundred and fifty dollars a year before Farmer Parker did his work. They will now produce at the lowest estimate $1,500,000 a year. That is PROGRESS. Teaching the old earth to give us better things than she has given before is the straight road to wealth.

This will interest readers of Hearst newspapers, because the development of the "Honey Ball Melon" is largely due to publicity given to it—gratuitously, of course—in one of Mr. Hearst's Texas newspapers, the Forth Worth Record.

It is a pleasant matter to let ten or fifteen million people that read the Hearst newspapers throughout the country know of this valuable melon development. When you buy melons ask for the "Honey Ball." If the man hasn't got it, tell him to GET it, please.

Various Things

And Not Complicated

The Japanese now pay a 100 per cent. luxury tax. This applies to 250 articles, all imported. Their idea is to make the Japanese buy what they want from each other. Another idea is to punish the United States that ships most of the luxuries to Japan. We are sorry she feels like punishing us, and admire her courage in paying the tax.

Persia promises everything possible to soothe our feelings about killing of United States Vice-Consul Imbrie and stoning his wife. The Persian government can't change the hate of fanatics into intelligent toleration. Where you have religious fanaticism, with the stupid idea that any group or individual especially controls and understands God, you will have murder.

The Persian government might have said, "Our own Shah, chief boss of Persia, lives in Paris. Why don't you Americans keep out of here?"

Samuel Gompers, who has said that the American Federation of Labor must not indorse La Follette, is having a hard time enforcing that ruling. Unions representing hundreds of thousands of men have already declared for La Follette. In Cleveland the executive board of railway and steamship clerks, freight handlers, express and station employes indorses La Follette and Wheeler.

Too much of a milksop "I love and respect you, dear brother," campaign by the two big parties may give them both a surprise from the La Follette corner. The people like EARNESTNESS in politics, and to many of them earnestness requires a real fight between leaders. An "after you, my dear Alphonse," campaign arouses no enthusiasm.

MRS. SOLOMON SAYS—

By HELEN ROWLAND

CONSIDER the Summer Widower, my Daughter, for he is the World's Greatest BLUFF!

I share the hesitancy of the world not his words, nor give ear to his flatteries.

For however "Distinguished" and "neglected" he may declare himself he is still an heart an husband; and thou art but a "fillerin" for his evenings.

Helen Rowland

Behold, with great noise and winking and beautifulness, he singeth "My Wife's Gone to the Country!" But his voice falleth and his "Hurrah" lacketh joyousness and his smile is sadder than tears.

He biddeth his wife good-by at the station with much show of cheerfulness.

But when he returneth to the empty apartment his spirit is lower than a thousand violet-rays and all his cockiness falleth from him.

He saith, "Now shall all mine evenings be mine OWN!" And he calleth in "the boys" for a little all-night game.

But his heart is not IN it: and after the third round he yawneth privily and wisheth his wife were there to call "Tapa."

He saith: "Now will I sleep until mid-afternoon! For there is no human alarm clock to arouse me from my slumbers."

Yet he awaketh promptly at the same old hour each morning, and the quietness of the place maketh him to feel "sorry for himself."

He wandereth unto the rose garden, but the smiles of the damsels allure him not and their multitudes appeareth faded. Pot-shas, they are no longer forbidden.

He lingereth late at the club and foregathereth with his old cronies. But their chatter is mere tiresome than an old phonograph record and their stories are of the vintage of Rip Van Winkle.

He accepteth the proffered drink, saying, "Thank heaven there is no one to censor my breath!" But after the third headache he decideth to vote for prohibition enforcement.

Lo, all the delights of FREEDOM are his—sun he longeth for the leash and the muzzle.

He sigheth for the morning Revelle and the evening questionnaire.

His wearieth of the restaurants and yearneth for a chance to criticise somebody's homecooking.

For, behold, HABIT hath fastened its hold upon him—and there is no "habit" stronger than a wife!

Verily, verily, there is naught in all the world sadder or more useful than a lone Husband in a great city.

And all his cheerings and braggings and hurrahs are BLUFF!

SELAH!

THE RHYMING OPTIMIST

By Aline Michaelis

BUTTERFLY, flaunting your wings of gold over the lily bed, gay ❀ the blossoms that here unfold petals of white and red, say, does the hint of an Autumn breath with your wings soften at times, Autumn when songsters will leave the trees, sailing to sunnier climes? Shadows that fall on your shining way, wind that blows chill for an hour. Butterfly, what do these symbols say, here in your, garden bower? Frail as you are, do you sense the shade of the thing that must come to pass, Winter that creeps upon hill and glade, blighting the flowers and the grass? No, it sings being no warning thrills, nothing of dread or fear; vague as a mist are the snow-clad hills, vague is the death of the year. Butterfly, Butterfly, well that it's so, joy is at wine to the heart; why should you tremble at shadows of woe, knowledge that Spring must depart? Bright as a blossom your gold wings go, flitting from rose to rose, type of the loveliness men may know here, ere the Summer goes. Who can be sure that the part you play is not a weighty one, adding your grace to the shining day, gold to the gold of the sun?

Husband in Accident

Helping Hand Editor:

I wish that you could get someone to give my five children some clothes, as my husband has not worked since last August. He met with an accident and has been in the hospital nearly half the time, and he is there at the present time and I do not think he will ever be able to work. I had two children sick with scarlet fever and three of them have just recovered from the measles and chicken pox. Their ages are girls—10, 9, 5 and 4 and boy 7. They need shoes and all kinds of clothes.

MRS. C. B.

For Large Man

Helping Hand Editor:

Have two large suit coats for a man and a number of other things. Kindly send an address.

MRS. F. F.

Thank you. We are sending you the address of P. J. B., who wears a large size.

Please Send Address

Edward F., who wants a bicycle, please send street and city address. We haven't the bicycle for you yet, but hope one will be coming soon and when it does, we won't know where to locate you.

Needs School Clothes

Helping Hand Editor:

Has any of your readers some clothes for a boy 6 years old? He goes to school for the first time this year and I have two other children besides. I also need dresses. I am small and can wear 14-year-old size. My husband isn't working half of the time and I have to take in beading, but it doesn't bring in much. My right arm is deformed and I can't do heavy work. I do hope dear Editor you will find some one to help me and my family out in clothes as every little bit helps.

MRS. D. F.

Clothes For Boy

Helping Hand Editor:

I have some boys' low shoes, size 1½; boys' clothing, size 8 and 10; woman's Winter coat, size 40, and several other things. Kindly send me the address of someone those will fit.

MRS. J. W. S.

Thank you. Your list was too lenghty to publish in its entirety. We sending you the addresses of a few families who can make use of the articles you have to offer.

This Family Needs Food

Helping Hand Editor:

My husband has only been working three days a week for the past three months. He has just been under an operation and will not be able to work for at least two weeks. I am not able to work myself, as I am in a delicate condition. I have three children, boys 7 and 5 and girl 15 months old. If any of your readers have anything in the line of food or clothing, I would be glad to get it.

MRS. J. O'B.

Sends Thanks

Helping Hand Editor:

Will you kindly thank the lady from Haverhill who sent such a nice package as I lost her address. Would have liked to have written her personally.

MRS. A. E. T.,

Westerly, R. I.

DR. FRANK CRANE ON DOUMERGUE

By DR. FRANK CRANE

ON the thirteenth of June, M. Gaston Doumergue was elected President of the French Republic, by the National Assembly at Versailles. This National Assembly consisted of the Senate and Chamber of Deputies combined.

M. Doumergue received five hundred and fifteen votes as against three hundred and nine by his nearest competitor.

Mr. Doumergue is considered a radical Socialist, but a mild one. So mild indeed that the bulk of the Socialists and Radicals were opposed to him and he was elected by the more moderate votes of the Assembly, by those who considered it necessary for the traditional policies of France to be maintained. It should not be forgotten that M. Doumergue voted for and defended M. Poincare's foreign policy in the Senate and approved of France's entry into the Ruhr.

Voting was closed at 4:50 o'clock, at which time the result was read in Congress by M. Bienvenue Martin, Vice-President of the Senate. Fully two-thirds of the Deputies and Senators present arose from their seats cheering wildly. The benches occupied by the Socialist and Radical-Socialist Deputies could at once be distinguished, as their occupants remained seated. The small knot of Communists attempted to sing the "Internationale," but their voices were promptly drowned by those of over five hundred Senators and Deputies singing the "Marseillaise."

There were only three candidates, M. Doumergue, M. Painleve and third, M. Camelinat. The result of the voting was that M. Doumergue received 515 votes, M. Painleve 309, and M. Camelinat 21. Having polled more than half the votes cast, M. Doumergue was therefore declared elected.

M. Francois-Marsal announced to M. Doumergue, in a private reception room called the Salle Marengo, that he had been elected President, and M. Marsal, who during the interregum had been constitutionally charged with all executive powers, handed them over to the new President.

After thanking Mr. Marsin and M. Marsal for their congratulations, M. Doumergue said that he would endeavor to put into practice at the Elysee the same principles of fidelity to ideals and love of country which had been his during a political life extending over thirty years.

After shaking hands with the Senators and Deputies and the members of the French and foreign press, and thanking them all for their congratulations, M. Doumergue drove off through the troop-lined streets in an open car bearing the Presidential flag to the Elysee, or official residences of the President.

Long before it was possible for the Presidential cortege to reach Paris the public, eager for the first sight of the new President, were crowded along the Champs Elysees. It was important for this crowd to be near shelter, for heavy storms broke from time to time, and the chestnuts with the finest foliage were those selected.

What M. Doumergue will do with his new position is as yet uncertain, but he is the distinct choice of the majority of the Deputies selected by the people and the reign of a constitutional head of the State is always followed with interest.

GARRETT P. SERVISS ON SIMPLE ALGEBRA

By Garrett P. Serviss

Famous Astronomer and Writer on Scientific Topics of Popular Interest.

A NUMBER of correspondents who have taken kindly to the suggestion that everybody's mental power and pleasure would be increased by knowing the ways of algebra, write for hints or examples to aid them. Most of them are particularly puzzled over the use of letters to represent numbers. I cannot open a school of algebra here, but possibly I can help to clear the matter.

To see why letters used temporarily in place of numbers are a great aid to calculation, imagine yourself to be a dealer who has bought 1,000 bushels of wheat, and has found out that he has been cheated by the substitution of lighter grain for a part of the lot.

You have learned that part of the grain weighs only seventy-five pounds to the bushel instead of one hundred pounds, as all was supposed to do. (These figures may make a farmer smile, but they will answer our purpose.) Now, finding that the whole 1,000 bushels weigh only 85,000 pounds, whereas if all were of the best grain the weight would have been 100,000 pounds, how are you going to discover the number of bushels of inferior grain mixed in?

Here algebra's "x" comes in very handily, thus:

Let x be the number of bushels of the best grain. Then, since each bushel weighs 100 pounds, the total weight of that grain must be 100 x. Also, since there are 1,000 bushels altogether, 1,000-x (is., 1,000 less x), will represent the number of bushels of the light grain, and this multiplied by 75, the weight of each bushel of that kind of grain, gives 75 (1,000-x) or 75,000-75x, to represent the total weight of the light grain. Adding the two, we get this equation representing the whole lot:

100 x plus 75,000-75x equals 85,000 (the total weight of the lot). But 100 x minus 75 x leaves 25 x on the first side of the equation, and the 75,000 transferred from the first to the second side becomes a minus quantity, which subtracted from 85,000 leaves 10,000. So, finally, we get 25 x equals 10,000, or, dividing through by 25, x equals 400. This shows that the lot contains only 400 bushels of the best grain, so that the other 600 bushels must be of the lighter kind.

To show what interesting tricks can be played with algebraic "x" I may give one more example: A man says: "I am now twice as old as my son, but ten years ago I was twenty-five years older than my son; what is the present age of each of us?"

Now, see how easily the trick is turned: If x represent the father's age; then x/2 must be the son's age. But ten years ago x-10 equaled x/2-10 plus 25. This gives us x-10 equal to x/2 plus 15; whence 2x-20 equals x plus 30, or x equals 50, the present age of the father, and the son's is half of that.

The great beauty of "x" is that it holds the sight on the bullseye.

Once-Overs

CIVIC WELFARE WORKERS.

You may do a lot of complaining about the men in your city who are always at the forefront in all public movements.

You grumble about the men who are prominently connected with your Chamber of Commerce, and other civic bodies.

You speak disparagingly of the men in your ward or city district because of the prominent positions which they hold in so many movements.

While you complain, still you are unwilling to take the time and make the effort that these men make to place themselves in a position where their services are so eagerly sought.

The men most talked about are the men who do the most, and who are found in the thick of every effort and undertaking.

Often they do not agree, but they stand out as representing something.

What have you ever done to entitle you to special recognition?

How much of your time and your attention have you given in working for any of the civic bodies of your city?

Isn't it true that you often stand back and grumble while others do the work?
